NEW ARTERY OF TRAFFIC PROPOSED IN CITY

Commission Calls Meeting To Consider Plan of New Thoroughfare

The question as to whether Glendale needs, and should have, a third east and west artery extending from San Fernando road to the Eagle Rock city limits will be discussed at a special meeting called for this purpose by T. W. Watson, president of the City Planning commission, to be held at the City Hall, Friday, May 18, at 8 o'clock.

The call is issued, stated P. J. Hayselden, secretary of the commission, this morning, in answer to numerous suggestions by interested parties that this city should widen and straighten Wilson avenue and make it a through street paralleling Broadway and Colorado, to relieve the congestion on these thoroughfares.

Seek Information

As it is not the policy of the commission arbitrarily to order or deny these improvements, all abutting property owners and other citizens desiring to be heard on the proposition will be given an opportunity to address the commission before any recommendation is made to the City Council.

In this connection no action was taken by the commission last night on the rounding of the corners at the intersection of Maryland and Wilson avenues. The matter of the northeast corner was not gone into at all, stated Mr. Hayselden, and it was the opinion of Commissioners T. W. Watson, J. H. Randall, S. E. Kinch and Harry Hague, who were present, that the thirty-five-foot radius recommended by the city engineer was excessive. As a fifteen-foot radius on this corner had already been given, the commission decided to let matters stand as they are now, until the proposition of widening Wilson was definitely settled.

Denies Application

After considering the application of G. F. Harris of Los Angeles for the establishment of a commercial district on Doran, Picneer drive and Columbus avenue, the commission denied the application at the request of adjoining property owners. Mr. Harris had drafted extensive plans for stores, apartment houses and courts that represented an investment of over $100,000, but, in the face of the

Veto for Soldiers' Bonus Bill Urged By Treasury Head

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The new soldiers' bonus bill was returned to the White House today by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon with the recommendation that it be vetoed by President Coolidge.

The bill was carried to the White House by Brigadier-General H. M. Lord, the director of the budget.

Mellon's position was that tax reduction would be impossible this year if the bonus bill becomes a law.

JAPAN NEXT GOAL FOR BIRDMEN

U. S. Army Flyers Reach Attu After Longest Flight In Globe Circuit

CORDOVA, May 10.—Successfully negotiating the longest hop of their Alaskan trip, America's three round-the-world flyers were at Chicagoff, island of Attu, today preparing for the jump across the Pacific which will land them on Japanese soil.

The flyers arrived at Attu last night at 9 o'clock, (Pacific coast time) according to a relayed radio message received here today.

The three planes hopped off from Atka at 2:10 (Pacific coast time) yesterday afternoon and made the long flight in a little less than seven hours.

Pacific Flight Next

Inasmuch as the planes were given a thorough overhauling at Atka, it is expected that they will be in readiness for the flight across the Pacific as soon as word is received that the weather is favorable. Steamers along the "great circle" are reporting daily to the naval radio station at St. Paul weather conditions in order to keep the flyers informed. This is a season of fog and wind, but the flyers are hopeful they will be able to make the jump qpickly.

It had been planned to arrive in the Kuriles by May 8. American and Japanese destroyers are awaiting the flyers there and great preparations have been made in Japan for the welcoming of the birdmen. They hope to reach Tokio by May 15 if weather conditions do not hold them up at Attu.

Martin Still Missing

No word has been received of the missing Commander Major Frederick L. Martin who dropped out of the flight while flying from Chignik to Dutch harbor ten days ago. Lieutenant Lowell Smith is in command of the globe-circlers in his absence. Lieutenants Erik Nelson and Leighton Wade are the other pilots.

Pappas, a cripple, to save his companion, Mrs. May Domang, young woman of this city, from drowning when she fell into the Sacramento river last night while on a fishing trip, failed when the terrified woman fought herself free after he had swum with her for more than a hundred yards. They were but twenty feet from shore when Mrs. Domang was drowned. Pappas, who only has one leg, was rescued by other members of the fishing party.

TROUBLE FOR PRESIDENT PILES UP

Congress Steadily Fails to Heed Party Whip on Big Measures

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Troubles piled up today on President Coolidge's doorstep. The stack is being increased almost daily by a Congress that has taken the bit in its teeth and is impervious to the whip of party discipline.

The soldiers' bonus bill is on the president's desk waiting for the "disapproved, C. C." that is to be written across its fresh pages.

Other Measures

It will be joined shortly by the new immigration restriction bill, excluding Japanese by federal statute on July 1, an issue on which President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes have suffered the worst defeat of the present Congress.

And in another two weeks the 1924 tax reduction measure, torn and scrambled in its tempestuous passage through Congress, until it has lost all semblance to the plan originally proposed by the president and Secretary Mellon, will take its place on the presidential desk, and invite a veto.

The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, setting up a $200,000,000 government buying corporation to stabilize prices, may be a late starter in the trouble sweepstakes. It is disapproved by the administration, but if the farm bloc can have its way—and it thinks it can—the measure is going to be put up to Mr. Coolidge within two weeks.

Veto of Bonus

Each of these measures is fraught with political consequences for the president, as a

SMOKY CITY IN GRIP OF STRIKE

Pittsburgers Walk to Work As Street Car Crews Demand Advance

PITTSBURGH, May 10.—With no street cars operating here since midnight, hundreds of thousands of Pittsburghers walked or rode in automobiles to work, following the walkout of 3,200 street railway employes.

The strike call was issued yesterday after ten days of negotiations between union officials, the company and city mediators had failed to reach an agreement of the men's demands for an increase from 67 cents to 75 cents and 77 cents an hour. Union men declared they had offered to compromise for 70 cents an hour at one stage of the negotiations, but the offer was refused.

No disorder is anticipated. Practically all passenger automobiles and trucks in Pittsburgh were called into service to haul workers to their places of business and apparently little inconvenience was caused by the strike.

Railroads entering Pittsburgh instituted extra service from scores of suburban stations and trains were operated at short intervals.

Roadside Fruit Vendors Banned By New Statute

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Southern California's cherished institution, the roadside fruit merchant, is about to be eliminated from the scheme of things. County authorities have decreed that they are unsanitary; that they clutter up the scenery.

Roadside fruit and vegetable vendors have become famous in tourist lore. Hundreds of people with an apple box for a counter, a ditch for a store and no rent to pay have built up good businesses disposing of oranges and lemons to motorists.

After June 4 it will be a misdemeanor for the roadside shopkeepers to operate on county highways, as the result of the adoption by the board of supervisors of an ordinance prohibiting this practice. The ordinance becomes effective on that date.

Penalty for violation is a maximum fine of $500 or six months in jail, or both.

CORPORATION PROVISION FEARED

Tax Bill Section Forcing Concerns to Distribute Earnings Attacked

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright 1924

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The biggest issue that has yet been raised in the taxation controversy in Congress—and one that may bring a veto from the president faster than anything else in the pending bill—is that provision adopted by the Senate which would force corporations to distribute practically all their earnings.

Business men who have studied the provision are almost a unit in declaring that not only would the prosperity of the country be undermined if such a thing became law but that interest rates would be forced upward and the business expansion of the United States would be seriously impaired.

Forced Into Bill

A coalition of Democrats and insurgent Republicans has forced the proposal into the Senate bill and the administration will make a determined fight in conference to have it eliminated.

Reduced to its essence, the provision means that big corporations which have always retained a large portion of their earnings as a margin of safety against fluctuating conditions in the world of industry would be compelled to pay out their accumulated funds in the form of dividends. Then, if they needed money for expansion or for emergencies they would have to borrow.

Undoubtedly they would be compelled to ask bankers to float large bond issues from time to

MANY POISONED IN TRAFFIC JAM

Monoxide Gas Fills Tunnel When Collision Blocks Scores of Autos

PITTSBURGH, May 10.—At least thirty-six persons were overcome by monoxide gas poisoning in the north-bound tunnels leading to South Hills, shortly after 10 o'clock today when an automobile collision jammed traffic for the tunnel's entire length of one and one quarter miles.

More than a score of persons were rushed to hospitals and all available pulmotors were set up at the mouth of the tunnel to resuscitate those overcome by the deadly gas.

Police In Control

The new tunnels have been open only a few weeks and regular tests of their safety are supposed to have been made. Affording a shortcut from the populous South Hills residential section, they are taxed to capacity during the early morning rush hours. With the street car strike in effect here today they were jammed with a heavy influx of traffic.

Police reserves were rushed in patrol wagons to guard against a stampede into the tunnel by would-be rescuers.

Heiress And Count Part

The COUNTESS LUDWIG VON HOOGSTRATEN, formerly MARY ROGERS, heiress to $40,000,000 estate of her grandfather, the late H. H. Rogers, one of the organizers of the Standard Oil Company, and her husband, who have separated, it is reported.

Young Bride, Accompanied by Her Father, Sails For Home While Husband Goes To Vienna to Play Tennis

By HARRY FLOREY
For International News Service.

PARIS, May 10.—Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraten, in an exclusive statement to International News Service this afternoon vigorously denied his romance with his young American bride, Millicent Rogers, heiress to $40,000,000, has been wrecked.

The countess, accompanied by her father, Colonel H. H. Rogers, sailed for New York on the liner France. Count Salm departed for Vienna to play tennis.

Rest and Quiet

"At present Millicent is unable to stand so much traveling and heat, so she is going to America to furnish a house at some quiet sea shore resort," said Count Salm. "She requires rest and quiet."

Asked as to the present attitude of the Rogers family toward him, the county replied:

"They are charmed. They were cold at first but conditions have cnanged."

The family bitterly opposed the hasty marriage in New York last January when the 19-year-old heiress was swept off her feet by the rapid wooing of her 39-year-old titled lover. Colonel Rogers' generosity evidently did not equal the satisfaction the count said he felt over the nuptials.

In Need of Money

When Count Salm arrived at the railway station he did not possess sufficient francs to check his baggage for Vienna. He apparently had only a handful of dollar bills. He changed a sufficient number of these to pay the baggage bill. As he did so he remarked:

"I don't want to waste dollars."

Count Salm admitted his future was undecided. He indicated there was no chance of the Rogers family using its influence to secure him a "hand picked" position in the United States.

"I have some good interests in Austraia which may develop," he added. "Besides, I would like the diplomatic service, but I don't want to go to Teheran. I want to pick my own post. I am going to confer with the ministers at Vienna about it. I know them all."

HUNT MOTIVES IN MYSTERY MURDER

Police Probe Bootleg Realm Over Bullet Riddled Body of Engineer

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Police delved into the inner secrets of the realm of bootlegging today to find a motive for the mysterious murder of Harry Beechwood, 34, mining engineer, whose body, pierced through the back by three bullets, was found in a luxurious but unoccupied Larkin street apartment.

The finding of more than $200 in money in the dead man's pockets disposed of a robbery motive, police said. They were told by a nurse attending Mrs. Beechwood, seriously ill in an apartment two floors above, that Beechwood was called from his wife's bedside by a man Thursday night. No shots were heard but police believe Beechwood was lured to the apartment and shot in the back at that time. Search for a cat which was disturbing the residents of the apartment with its noise resulted in finding of the body.

PRESIDENT'S VETO WILL BE OF NO USE, IS BELIEF

Coalition Measure Goes Through Upper House By 69 to 15 Vote

By W. K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—After flatly rejecting all recommendations of the administration, the Senate this afternoon passed a new tax reduction bill based upon rates proposed by a coalition of Democrats and Republican insurgents.

The Senate's action gave the administration its biggest legislative defeat of the present session of Congress.

Vote Surprising

The size of the vote—69 to 15—in favor of the bill, was surprising, in view of the greatly smaller majorities by which administration amendments to the bill were beaten this week.

The Democrats were quick to point out that the bill could be passed over the president's veto if the sixty-nine senators who favored it on initial passage kept their ranks intact.

The Mellon plan of tax reduction was flatly repudiated and the bill probably will run into a presidential veto as a result. It now goes to conference for adjustment of rates which differ from those enacted by the House and will not reach the White House for at last two weeks.

Tax Reduction

The Senate measure would sharply reduce taxes upon the small taxpayers, granting them a reduction from four to two per cent on their normal income rates but maintaining a maximum surtax rate of 40 per cent as compared to 50 per cent in existing law. It also would provide a straight 25 per cent reduction in all 1923 income taxes, payable during the present year.

The bill was condemned by administration leaders. Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, declared it would result in a revenue deficiency of $160,000,000 a year if it became a law. He charged the coalition amendments had "robbed" the government of

Shower Hostess

Miss Sara Faye Snell entertained last night with a miscellaneous shower at her home, 113 East Eulalia street, complimenting Miss Nancy St. Clair of 1250 South Maryland avenue, who will become the bride of Carl Olmquist of Los Angeles early in June. The affair, which was given as a complete surprise to Miss St. Clair, proved a most enjoyable social event.

Yellow and white spring flowers, in May baskets, were decorative features.

During the evening the guests were asked to cast votes for a May queen and, much to the surprise of Miss St. Clair, she was chosen the queen. Miss Snell then placed a crown of yellow flowers on her head and presented her with an artistically decorated May basket, which contained the many lovely gifts for her new home.

Miss Ruth Goldsborough favored those present with vocal selections, and the rest of the evening was devoted to an informal social time, when dainty refreshments were served.

The guests included Misses Nancy St. Clair, Mary St. Clair, Ruth Goldsborough, Ruth Rider, Carol Duncan, Frances Goldsborough, Laura Donnell, Ruth Ryan, Ethel Preston, Tirzah Snell, Phoebe Snell, and Mesdames Harry St. Clair, John T. Cate, William Snell, Mary Snell.

DINES NOT TO MARRY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Edna Purviance, film beauty, contrary to reports, is not going to marry Courtland Dines, wealthy Denver clubman, who was shot by Horace Greer, chauffeur, in the presence of Miss Purviance and Mabel Normand, in Los Angeles New Year's day.

Dines, who is here to visit his father, a hospital patient, following a fall on the Del Monte golf course, declares he never expects to marry. He says not even the most beautiful woman in the world could become his bride and that he is a bachelor for life—absolutely.

Man when most alive to his physical condition is only 25 per cent conscious of what his body is doing, scientists say.

HUNDREDS VISIT NEW TILE PLANT

R. E. Johnston Entertains At Luncheon Marking Opening Today

Several hundred people of Glendale and surrounding points were the luncheon guests this noon of President R. E. Johnston of the Concrete Brick & Tile company, on the occasion of opening their new stone-tile plant at 440 South San Fernando road. Several prominent speakers were on the program, including J. E. Jellick, district engineer of the Portland Cement association; K. M. Grier, advertising manager of the Blue Diamond Material company, and J. C. Anderson, consulting engineer of the National Stone-Tile company.

The affair was held under the auspices of the industrial committee, Glendale Realty board, comprising J. M. Boland, chairman; Charles B. Guthrie and L. H. Wilson. Peter Hanson, president of the board, gave one of his characteristic talks, well larded with humor.

J. M. Boland told briefly the objects and aims of the industrial committee. D. H. Smith, vice-president, and Eugene F. Sanders, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, brought the greetings of that body.

Tells of Plant

"The Concrete Brick & Tile Company, Past, Present and Future," was the topic of President Johnston's address, in which he traced the history of the organization he heads.

The program included musical numbers, Italian dialect stories and many other excellent features, and was followed by a tour of the Concrete Brick & Tile company's plants, and of Glendale's rapidly growing industrial section, lying along the San Fernando road and the Southern Pacific right of way.

A full report of the affair, which was pronounced an industrial high spot in the history of the city, will be found in The Glendale Evening News for Monday, May 12.

Rivalry Is Keen in Occidental Election

The student body election at Occidental resulted in some political rivalry and the competition for the various offices has necessitated the calling of another election for two of the positions. Frank Bradshaw, present editor of the La Encina year book, was elected president of the student body over Lawrence Johnson and Maynard Munger. Miss Ella Anderson was unanimously chosen vice president. Alice Gates of Pasadena was elected secretary for next year. Robert Stevenson will be the forensic representative and Clarence Ebers athletic representative.

The position of editor-in-chief of the Occidental newspaper, finds Kenneth Wilson and Sam Peck still in the running, Edward Parks having been eliminated. Cheer leader is between Harry Cunningham and Bob Lindley.

POETIC TRIBUTE PAID TO MOTHER

Sybil Campbell Pens Verse of Haunting Beauty to Best Friend

In recognizing the poems on "Mothers' Day" received this week The Glendale Evening News is pleased to print herewith a poem entitled "Mother," written by Miss Sybil L. Campbell, a member of the clerical force of The News office.

Her many friends will read it with interest:

"In all this wide, wide world of ours,
There's one so sweet, so true,
Who looks with loving hope and trust
On all the things we do.
Each year, as time goes quickly by,
and another milestone's passed,
One Sabbath day's devoted to
That one, yet unsurpassed,
Our Mother.

'Twas always she, who day by day,
With gentle loving hand,
Gave up the things she loved the best
For things small hearts demand.
And when at last the chubby babes
Had grown to man's estate,
Who was it laughed or wept with us
At the mighty hand of Fate?
Our Mother.

Tender, unselfish, loving still
As in those days of yore,
When into her sympathetic ear
Our childish griefs we'd pour.
On Mothers' Day as twilight falls
O'er all this vast domain,
In loving reverence due to her,
We close our eyes and dream
Of Mother."

DEATH SUMMONS MISS JULIA DOHR

Former Glendale Resident Dies at Sister's Home; Funeral Monday

Glendale residents, who were friends of Miss Julia Dohr during the years she made Glendale her home, will be sorry to learn of her death at 11 o'clock last night at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Sturdy at 218 South Santa Fe avenue, Huntington Park.

While Miss Dohr had not been in good health for several years, her condition did not become serious until four weeks ago, when she fell and broke an arm and a leg. These injuries confined her to her bed and her condition grew more serious until her death last night.

Last Rites Monday

Miss Dohr was born seventy years ago in St. Louis, Mo. Besides her sister in Huntington Park she leaves a sister and brother in Missouri, near St. Louis.

Her funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Huntington Park Undertaking chapel. Following the service, Miss Dohr's body will be brought to Glendale for burial in beautiful Forest Lawn Memorial park.

German-made pianos have been offered in England as being "British-made" and the attempted deception so aroused the English that the sales of the Teuton instruments have fallen off considerably.

FIFTY YOUTHFUL PUPILS PRESENT PLEASING PLAY

Little Tots Score Success In 'The Lost Princess' Given Last Night

"The Lost Princess," presented last night in the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school auditorium by the pupils of the Acacia Avenue school, under the auspices of the Acacia Avenue Parent-Teacher association, was a brilliant whirl of color and beauty.

The play was written and directed by the president of the association, Mrs. L. D. Torrey, and she was accorded most deserving compliment for the success of the affair.

The costumes of those in the cast were elaborately made, and lent a colorful effect to the presentation. There were over fifty little girls, all under 12 years of age, and they demonstrated careful training and exceptional talent.

The audience was composed of over 700 Glendalians, and each of the three acts was sincerely appreciated, as was attested by the ringing applause.

It is difficult to select a single most scintillant star from amid the brilliant galaxy that last night made its appearance in Glendale, the city which can truthfully boast of a vast number of talented children.

The Lost Princess was beautifully portrayed by Mary Welch. The fairy queen, Alice Torrey, in a fluffy costume, appeared in a fairy dance which was excellently done.

The woodland scene, where the flowers, dolls and the fairies expressed their joy and happiness in artistic dances, proved a most enjoyable number.

The entire cast is as follows: The Lost Princess, Mary Welch; King, Ruth Hellman; Queen, Mary Wendt; Prince Charming, Ruth Mitchell; Lady in Waiting, Ruth Jeffers; Page, Cora Jeffers; Lord Robins, Louise Torrey; Fairy Queen, Alice Torrey; Forest Maid, Betty Hitchcock; Rag Doll, Martha Hitchcock; Tin Soldier, tiny Madeline; Story Telling Girl, Barbara Braun.

The following dances were given during the woodland scene: Flower dance, Thelma Wilson, Pirouette, Dorothy Alexander; Oriental dance, Shirley Bennett; Japanese Dolls, Marjory Goodhue, Virginia Phillips; French Dolls, Constance Leffler, Laverne Welch and Margaret Welch; dance of the Fairy Queen, Alice Torrey; toe dance, Eleanor Marek.

The orchestra from the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school furnished the music for the evening.

Changes Give Police Greater Office Room

Remodeling of police headquarters at the city hall is about completed.

Additional room has been given the desk sergeants, by moving the partition between the general office provided for Chief Fraser in which records will be kept. This will also be used as a dictation room.

The City Council purchased a new safe for the department last week in which to keep important records and articles being held as evidence for trials in the Superior court.

Recent additions to the force made the old quarters very cramped. The detective bureau is still located in the old building department room across the hall.

Postpone Cornerstone Laying at Sawtelle

All Daughters of Veterans, W. R. C. and G. A. R. members Sons of Veterans and members of the auxiliary who were planning to attend the laying of the cornerstone and flag base of the Memorial Home of the Daughters of Union Civil War Veterans at Sawtelle, which had been announced for Mothers' Day, Sunday, May 11, will note that the ceremonies have been postponed on account of the postponement of the National Encampment. No definite date has been set for the affair, but it probably will take place during the first week in June.

Attractive Insurance Offered by Auto Club

A drive is on among members of the Automobile Club of Southern California for subscribers to the new special accident policy being written by the club, according to Martin Cook, who is conducting this work under Manager M. B. Towman of the Glendale office, 248 South Brand boulevard.

Insurance against accidents that carries $10,000 to $15,000 indemnity and $50 a week indefinite payments for disability, may be had at a very nominal sum, states Mr. Cook, who urges all members of the club living in Glendale to get in touch with the local branch at their earliest convenience and learn the details of this remarkable policy.

'Medicine of Music' Is Banker's Topic On Hospital Ship

H. V. Adams of the escrow department, Glendale Savings bank, 104 South Brand boulevard, will address several hundred U. S. sailors aboard the hospital ship at San Pedro at 7 o'clock Sunday night, May 11, on "The Medicine of Music."

This is Mr. Adams' fifth trip to the harbor to talk to the sailor boys. For fifteen years he toured the country with a Chautauqua circuit. Three years ago he canceled all his contracts, tiring of the road. He wished to be with his family and chose Glendale as the ideal home city.

WRITES POEM IN MOTHER'S HONOR

Glowing Tribute Penned by Detroit Songster Is Forwarded to News

Miss Florence Cobel of Detroit, Mich., recently sent a poem to The Glendale Evening News, dedicated to her little niece, Helen McCaughna of 631 North Howard street, and now a poem has been received from her, entitled "Mother."

In anticipation of "Mothers' Day," the poem is printed below:

Did you ever stop to wonder just who it ever was
Who makes all things so cheerful in everything she does,
Who walked along your side that day when you crept on the floor
And made her feet so tired and often very sore?

Did you ever stop to wonder who sang to slumberland
A tiny little baby that lay in her great hand;
Who loved to feel that touch upon a skin so soft and bright,
And knew that when she was around all would be very right?

Did you ever stop to wonder who sent you on your way
To learn the things which you should know and keep from day to day,
And learn to do to others as you would have them do
The things which make us gentle and honest and so true?

Did you ever stop to wonder who taught you that fair play Should be your strongest motto along your very way,
That she might smile and feel so proud as she would gaze at you,
Knowing you would follow her example good and true?

Did you ever stop to wonder that in the days to come
That be it man or woman this life's great race you run?
But don't forget that you'll look backward and always want to say,
"All praise is due to her who made me what I am today."

RELIGIOUS STUDY CLASS NEAR END

Sunday School Methods Will Be Discussed In Last Weeks of Course

The Community School of Religious Education will be in session but three more weeks, and at the end of that time the four courses will have been completed. These have all been most instructive, and those interested in this line of work are urged to visit at least one of the remaining sessions.

Mrs. Rebecca Price, who is giving a course on Principles of Teaching, will discuss next Monday night the subjects of Interest and Attention. This will include the various types of attention, the principles governing interest and attention, and the value of incentives in arousing and maintaining these two attitudes which are so necessary to real teaching. A story will be told suitable to children of intermediate age, illustrating the lesson of the evening.

Roy G. Bose, who is teaching the course on Dramatics and Pageantry in the church school, will tell of the various uses that can be made of pageants in connection with the missionary society, a Sunday afternoon story hour, social evenings, conventions, community gatherings, etc. At the close of the lesson the story of Abraham and his three visitors will be dramatized.

Rev. C. A. Cole's Topic

Rev. C. A. Cole, who is teaching the course on The Teaching Values of the Old Testament, will show how the various messages of the Old Testament can be presented to the different ages in the graded school known as intermediate, young people, and adult, taking each department on one of the three remaining evenings.

Floyd Mercer will proceed with the lessons on the Teaching Values of the New Testament, the next two lessons covering a general study of the Epistles of John, Peter, James and Jude, seeking to know something of the author, the message, and to whom written, with adaptations of portions to the different groups in a graded church school.

CLUB PRESIDENT WIRES GREETINGS BEFORE SAILING

Mrs. Jones Sends Message To Associates on Eve Of European Trip

Though separated from Glendale by the width of a whole continent and just on the eve of sailing for an extended foreign trip, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, founder and president of the Glendale Music club did not forget that organization on its meeting night last night.

Demonstrating that she was present in spirit at the meeting at the Tuesday Afternoon club, she sent a telegraphic greeting to Mrs. Nathan Rigdon, vice president, who is acting president.

Mrs. Jones' Message

The telegram, which was read to the club gathering by Mrs. Rigdon, said, "Absent for the first time since the organization of the club. My thoughts and wishes are with you. Absence makes the heart grow fonder. Sincere regards and best wishes to every officer, department, committee and loyal member of the best music club in the finest city in America."

Mrs. Jones with her huband and daughter Winifred, sail from New York today for abroad.

Of special interest last night was the announcement made concerning the oratorio department, which is to begin serious work next Tuesday night on Handel's "The Messiah," to be given at Christmas time under the direction of John Smallman.

Oratorio Rehearsal

Following the presentation of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," a permanent oratorio organization was formed with Mrs. F. H. Wallace, manager, and Mrs. Roberta T. Young, secretary-treasurer. The first rehearsal for "The Messiah" will be held at 7:30 o'clock next Tuesday night in the Harvard High school. All Glendalians interested in taking part, are cordially invited to be present.

A charge of fifty cents a month will be made and two months' dues are solicited next Tuesday night. There will be meetings in May and part of June, followed

Traffic Commission In Report to City Council Next Week

The Citizens' Traffic commission met last night at the Glendale office of the Automobile Club of Southern California, 248 South Brand boulevard, Chairman M. Walters presiding, and further discussed the recommendations that will be made to the City Council early next week.

It was decided to hold another meeting before officially presenting their conclusions, the date to be set later by Chairman Walters.

'PLASTIGRAMS' TO ENLIVEN MOVIES

Scientific Development of Films Will Be Shown At the Gateway

Glendale people will have an opportunity to witness what is considered by scientists the most important invention in motion pictures since their inception, when, starting Sunday at the Gateway theatre, the astounding stereopticon film feature, "Plastigrams," will show in conjunction with Anita Stewart's "The Great White Way."

"So lifelike are these figures," says Manager Bernard E. Loper of the Gateway theatre, "that they fairly seem to leave the screen and approach the audience."

The "Plastigrams" reel will continue at this theatre for the three days, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 11, 12 and 13.

Edwin Stark to Talk Here on Sunday Night

Edwin Stark of Los Angeles will deliver a lecture Sunday night, May 11, in Hahn's auditorium, 109-A North Brand boulevard on the conditions of the world and the outcome as viewed in the light of prophecy. Mr. Stark has traveled extensively throughout the United States and Europe delivering lectures of this nature to large audiences.

YEARLY REPORT TELLS OF ELKS' WORK OF RELIEF

Many Needy Families Aided By Local Lodge During Days of Grief

There are 1,452 Elks' lodges in the United States, and of this number Glendale lodge No. 1289 stands ahead of 1,414 in its charity work, according to figures compiled by Stanley S. Frentz, chairman of the sick and relief committee of the local organization.

His annual report, covering the period from April 1, 1923, to March 31, 1924, has just been filed and is published in the May issue of the Whistler, the monthly publication of lodge No. 1289. It embraces many interesting facts and figures, and as the Elks go about their charitable work in a very quiet manner, their work in this direction is often underestimated by the public at large.

The report shows that the county of Los Angeles spent more than $1,000,000 on relief work during the past year. The local lodge is associated with the County Charities, and assists in caring for 4,953 families depending upon the good will of their fellow men. There are more than 9,000 children under 15 years of age in these families.

Committee Members

Associated with Mr. Frentz in this work on the committee are James F. McBryde, Gerald A. Dockery and Gus H. Pulliam. Among the activities of the committee during the past year were the following items: 1,162 distress and sick calls made; 916 cases of distress relieved with cash or groceries; 77 men, women and children given clothing, and 13,964 miles traveled in sick and relief work.

A total of $9,357.15 was received for charitable work from the lodge members during the year, and $8,273.13 was expended. Some of the items were: Candy, $465; flowers, $604.60; blankets, $645; shoes, $533.80; groceries, $3,387.50.

The lodge contributed to many funds throughout the year, and many instances are recorded of happiness brought into lives which had been saddened by misfortune. An invalid chair was given to a

Daily Greeting To News Readers

It is when life becomes straiter by sorrow and bereavement, that men of faith see widely over the land of far distances. A divine atmosphere envelops their world, a vaster amplitude of light surrounds their being.—Hugh MacMillan.

MOTHERS' DAY

This age is marked by so much that is new in the way of inventions, improved living conditions and in the status of women. The age of the mother who sacrificed everything for her home and children is passing. A new mother is here. Women are beginning to see that they owe something to themselves and they are willing to pay themselves in full. They consider their duty to themselves where they formerly thought only of husband and children. And this is right.

The woman who can spend eight hours a day in a business office and at the same time make a home for her husband and care for her children and bring them up to be good citizens is deserving of all praise. Women whose only interest is in the home and those whose only interest is in the office wonder how any one can hold two jobs at the same time, but, as the old saying goes, you never know what you can do till you try. This is one of the greatest problems of civilization today, one in which millions are interested, as witness the popularity of A. M. S. Hutchinson's story, "This Freedom," which deals with the mother who is a business woman.

It is not fair to herself nor to her children that a mother should sacrifice everything for them. It drains away her own life blood and only weakens them. But the modern tendency seems to be that the mother owes her children very little and they owe her still less. Any tie that binds is galling.

Older readers have mothers, or have had them, whose sole business was the welfare of the family, the making of a home, the establishment of a background and a foundation for the children. Her purpose in life was to clothe and feed, educate and inspire her offspring. She never rested and her duty was never done until her hands were folded for her at the last.

Others have mothers, or remember mothers, who had their interest just as much at heart but who sought diversion and recreation and culture for themselves outside the home, knowing this would better prepare them to be companions to the children and help them meet the problems of life.

The mother who from necessity must be the breadwinner for the family, while she is at the same time head of the home, and who does her job well, is deserving of all the honor and glory that the world can give.

There are mothers and mothers. Of course your own is, or was, the very best that ever lived. If she has gone, honor her memory on Mothers' Day. If she is living show the love and appreciation that is due her.

HELP TO SPREAD JOY

An association of neighborliness in every southern California community is one of the greatest needs of the day. The county is becoming so populous that without a recreation of the friendly spirit the residents of the "small towns" back east are going to dread their trip to the coast and many will find it pleasant to retire elsewhere.

Ten years ago the communities surrounding the city of Los Angeles were that small anyone knew everyone and everyone knew anyone as soon as they had settled in a neighborhood. This now is all changed.

Community Service, in its way, tries to fill the bill; clubs are very good, but to many of country folk there is nothing more than a back-fence visit desired to cheer them along life's way.

So it is sound advice to all the residents of southern California to get acquainted with your neighbors—otherwise, you may not have them for long. Make them feel that you actually take an interest in them. Discuss the old days "back east," invite them over to your house to hear the radio, or "have them in" some evening for dinner.

In other words, be hospitable and spread joy. It pays big dividends. Try it and see!

IS THIS EDITORIAL FOR YOU?

This editorial is written straight to the man who has not been to church since he was a boy. Are you that man? Perhaps you haven't been to school since you were a boy, either. They don't conduct schools today as they did in the days of the "little red brick" affairs of a generation back; they have adopted modern methods of education.

The churches of today are in the same position. They have developed greatly in the past few years. You who have not gone to church since you were a boy have no idea what institutions of service the modern churches have become.

You have your ideals, even if you don't go to church, and you have your conception of what high character and good citizenship should be. You would find yourself surprised, if you went to church, to learn how much you and your neighbors are in agreement on these things. The modern churches are common ground for the interchange of constructive ideas, where the best thoughts of groups of minds can be fused into action for the general good.

Every church in Glendale invites you to attend its services, with an invitation warm and personal, given in the earnest hope it will be accepted.

KNOWING EACH OTHER

Some one says that only when the peoples of the world understand each other will there be no more war. Most of the trouble in the world is the result of our not knowing each other, not understanding each other, not being able to get another's viewpoint. We misjudge another's motives because we do not know him. On the spur of the moment we say we do not like the person we have just met, and if we are brought into close contact with him this dislike is sure to lead to trouble. He senses our antipathy and nothing is so hard as to like a person we know does not like us. If we had taken the trouble to learn to know this individual before forming an opinion about him we might have found him really admirable and likeable and avoided considerable friction between us.

There are two sides to every question. In any controversy those on both sides are nearly always sincere. If we could only get the viewpoint of our adversary and he could get ours, how much happier the world would be. This is true both of nations and individuals.

As the battle rages on the political front, the sentry paces to and fro, and in a crude whisper says: "Twelve o'clock and oil's well!"

They say that aviation is to be taught at the University of Southern California. At last! A higher education!

Authors in London have formed a labor union. Back to the typewriters, boys, there will be no strike!

Wanted—Gentlemen

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The greatest need of the world today is Gentlemen.

While it might be said that the greatest need is the Christian, that would connote too much. The legacy of two thousand years of struggle makes the idea of the Christian suggest creed, party, contention and war cries.

The word Gentleman contains about the practical substance of the word Christian, what you might call its usable residuum.

If there is anything that is a Simon pure and genuine "long-felt want" it is the Gentleman.

We even need the Gentleman in the pulpit. That is, we need less Bible thumping and more appreciation, courage, enthusiasm and inspiration from the Sacred Desk.

At least, we need a little more restraint and consciousness of responsibility.

The Gentleman is needed in the newspaper office. Even the reporter can tell the truth without being a bounder. The editorial writer would carry much more weight if he realized that vividness, sincerity and fearlessness are vastly more convincing than reckless attack.

We desperately need Gentlemen in Congress, and in the Senate. We need men there who will not take advantage of their immunity to make sttements they would not dare to make outside. We need men there who realize that fearlessness, honesty and honor are not inconsistent with courtesy.

What characterizes the Gentleman?

A Gentleman will not say of a man behind his back what he would not say to his face.

A Gentleman does not assume that his opponent is a scoundrel; he must have that fact proved.

A Gentleman recognizes his responsibility for his utterances.

A Gentleman depends, for his effectiveness, upon facts, and not upon an offensive manner.

A Gentleman habitually understates, and is careful not to exaggerate.

A Gentleman plays fair, works fair and talks fair. A Gentleman is one who controls himself; thus he is equipped to control others.

A Gentleman is considerate of those weaker than himself and not afraid of those stronger than himself.

A Gentleman conceals a hand of iron under a glove of velvet; the non-Gentleman conceals a flabby hand under an iron glove.

We need reformers, we need protesters, we need business men, legislators, preachers, bricklayers and bankers; but most of all we need that every one of these shall be a Gentleman.

INTOLERANT TURKEY
(From the Fresno Republican)

We are having considerable derisive amusement in the United States over the order of the Turkish government closing the school of medicine at the women's college at Constantinople on the ground that "higher education is the exclusive right of the government." This woman's college medical school, maintained by American philanthropy, has been virtually the only institution of its kind between western Europe and Japan, a light burning in the darkness of oriental ignorance of sanitation and of bacteriological causes of disease. But it must be closed because all education in Turkey is not only to be Turkish but directed by the Turkish government.

But we in the United States need not be too superior in this matter over the benighted Turks.

For we have many citiens who urge just that sort of control of education, even of higher education, in the United States.

There are many men of influence and standing who would forbid all colleges to teach any political thought except their particular thought, to denounce any philosophy of life but their philosophy. They would have education censored in the "interest of the state," and then make the state's interest subject to their own peculiar notions of what the state's interest should be.

The Turks are not the only intolerant people on the face of the earth.

LEMON PIE A RIGHT
(From the San Diego Union)

Our attention has been called to the lemon pie menace in the city schools, through remarks uttered by the president of our city Board of Education. The president, Mr. Woolman, saw a junior high school student eating a thick and unhealthy slab of lemon pie—eating it in the morning, presumably on top of a generous breakfast, and before reporting for his day's work at the school. Mr. Woolman reported the matter to his fellow board members, with the just comment that the sight had made his stomach do flipflops of sympathy.

That was several days ago; but it was reported that the Board of Education might do something about this menace—and this has been worrying us ever since.

It has been proposed that students be equipped with a special school currency, not good in the ordinary marts of trade, thereby preventing them from purchasing lemon pies and other gastronomic monstrosities.

In one way this would be a good plan; in another way it would be a very bad and unjust plan. Indiscriminate purchase and consumption of lemon pies by immature citizens is probably not a good thing for these aforesaid citizens. On the other hand, it is not a very bad thing; and to prohibit it is to interfere with certain rights handed down to boys from time immemorial.

The average boy is gifted with internal arrangements that permit him to eat lemon pies, other pies, watermelons, jawbreakers, raw carrots, ice cream, loquats, orange peel, bologna sausage and more pies, at frequent intervals, indiscriminately, and with consequences which at their worst are only nominal. Furthermore, this kind of versatility has long been recognized as one of the natural talents and inalienable rights of the human boy.

It is our earnest hope that the Board of Education will find some way of ameliorating this activity without prohibiting it.

PROBLEMS FOR SECRETARY
(From the Riverside Press)

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur while presiding as superior judge and judge of the supreme court of California had many a knotty problem to solve, but he seems right now to have a greater puzzle than any legal complication that he untangled in this state. How to make an effective navy out of the material that he has on hand; how to increase the navy's personnel to the required quota, and to get from congress appropriations for putting the navy on a basis that will compare with the navies of such other first class powers as Great Britain and Japan, are problems that will test to the full the resourcefulness and acumen of the new secretary.

No less an authority than Admiral Coontz, head of the naval fleet in the recent naval maneuvers, has declared that the navy is undermanned, that the submarines are obsolete and too slow to be of real service; that an intensive construction program will have to be carried out to put the navy back on its feet, and that a lot of old battleships will have to be converted into oil burners. There are as well minor defects and shortcomings that the gallant, oldsea dog mentioned.

Secretary Wilbur is going into the matter with characteristic Wilbur thoroughness, and when he gets ready to act Congress and the nation will be prepared for some important action.

A Thought That Came Today

By HARVEY E. WESTGATE of Glendale

RIDDLE OF THE UNIVERSE

How like a stream that winds and winds
Through narrow banks or wide,
Is Life that flows along serene
'Til looms the Great Divide—
'Til at the rocks which we call Death
It leaps as waters fall,
Nor leaves behind one rainbow spray—
But myst'ry over all.

How like a brook that dashes o'er
The sheer tall cliff and goes
To join the far-flung ocean depths,
Whose secrets no man knows—
Is Life that quits its channels here,
And dashes on its way
To that deep Sea of Mystery
We call the Final Day!

We know the stream comes back to earth
On wings of fog and rain,
That at its Resurrection Day
It greets the hill and plain;
We know it flows and flows for aye,
Through narrow banks or wide,
But still men doubt that Life returns
Upon the Spirit Tide!

The People —of— Anytown

Character Sketches

Before I came to Glendale I lived in Anytown, State of Discontent. It isn't a bad town at all: in fact, it is the best place in the world—next to Glendale. I have only the friendliest feeling for the people of Anytown, who are among the finest to be found. You know them all, for you lived there as long as I did. Isn't it strange that you find the very same people in Anytown and Everytown?

Do you remember old Mr. Caswell? How many years was he mayor of Anytown? We used to believe in the divine right of mayors. We children were always impressed when on our way to school when we met the mayor coming down the street. I can see him yet, head held high; long, white locks flowing from beneath the high silk hat; clear, cold blue eyes looking straight ahead, seeing and recognizing no one. He was tall and spare and his stride was majestic. The journey from his home (you know the big house with the wide lawn and the great trees on upper Elm street) to his office in the bank building was a rite, an impressive ceremony, though it was a daily occurrence for years.

Mayor Caswell was one of those people who are born to rule. In a city he would be swallowed up in oblivion, for, though he was a capable executive and wealthy (as wealth goes in Anytown), he was a small-town man. He was director of the bank, president of the board of education, deacon in the Presbyterian church, head of the library board and dictator and autocrat in every matter that pertained to Anytown. He ruled with an iron hand without the velvet glove, but he had never heard the word "graft" and he never thought of making capital out of his connections. We trusted him and gave him a free hand and he never betrayed us. We didn't dream of deposing him, and he literally died in the mayor's chair, for he was stricken while presiding over the city council.

Mayor Caswell was not a good mixer; he rarely spoke to any one outside of his family and his closest associates. He was reserved, aloof, almost arrogant in his bearing.

It was a foolish and un-American attitude the people of Anytown assumed toward Mayor Caswell—turning over the town and all of its affairs to him for years. But isn't it a remarkable tribute to him that he never once lowered his high standard of conduct nor took advantage of the situation to serve his own personal ends? To him the honor of the town was his own honor. People do not trust their public servants that way today. Alas, how few are worthy of such trust.

The After House

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Copyright, 1924, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

THE STORY

Dr. Ralph Leslie, just graduated from medical college, ships on the yacht Ella as deck steward. He is penniless and thinks this will be a good opportunity to recuperate from an attack of typhoid fever. Marshall Turner is the owner. His wife, her sister Elsa, a divorcee named Mrs. Johns, and a man named Vail are the passengers. Turner is dissipated and evidently jealous of his wife and Vail. There is a crew of fourteen, including the stewardess, a maid, the cook and Williams, the butler. Charlie Jones, a German sailor with a bent for religion, is friendly to Leslie. Captain Richardson and Turner have an argument over running the ship. Turner, drunk, appoints Singleton captain. Richardson knocks Singleton down and threatens to put Turner in irons if he interferes with the running of the boat. Mrs. Johns asks Leslie to sleep near the passengers' staterooms, in a pantry, as she is afraid of trouble. One night Schwartz, the second mate, disappears overboard, though nobody sees him jump. On the night of August 12, Leslie wakes in the pantry to find himself locked in. Vail, Captain Richardson and the maid, Karen, are murdered with an axe. The men put Leslie in charge, and they decide to head back to port. The axe is found where it was flung into the stewardess' berth. She says that Karen had been roused by a bell in the night, she thought Mrs. Turner's, but Mrs. Turner says she did not ring. Karen told the stewardess she thought Turner, who had annoyed her, was outside the door. She opened the door, screamed and fell dead. Mrs. Sloane said she saw a figure in white in the door throw the axe toward her. The crew imprisons Singleton. Leslie and Burns share responsibility for keeping up discipline. They lock the axe in the captain's cabin and Leslie takes the key. The other key, the one to the pantry, has not been found. "Find that and you will find the man who locked you in," says Elsa. They put the bodies in a lifeboat. Leslie and Elsa find that the bell that called Karen registered Vail's room. Leslie sees Elsa pick up a key in Turner's room. Turner gets delirium tremens and raves about Vail. Elsa tries to throw the pantry key into the sea, but Leslie sees her and she gives it to him. At night Adams, in the crow's-nest, says he has seen a white figure crawling along the deck. He hurls down a marlinespike, which disappears, but is found next day fastened over the side of the ship.

XVIII—JONES STUMBLES OVER SOMETHING

I find from my journal, that the next seven days passed without marked incident. Several times during that period we sighted vessels, all outward bound, and once we were within communicating distance of a steam cargo boat on her way to Venezuela. She lay to and sent her first mate over to see what could be done.

He was a slim little man with dark eyes and a small mustache above a cheerful mouth. He listened in silence to my story, and shuddered when I showed him the jolly-boat. But we were only a few days out by that time, and, after all, what could they do? He offered to spare us a hand, if it could be arranged, but Adams having recovered by that time we decided to get along as we were. A strange sight we must have presented to that tidy little officer in his uniform and black tie; a haggard, unshaven lot of men, none too clean, all suffering from strain and lack of sleep, with nerves ready to snap; a white yacht, motionless, her sails drooping—for not a breath of air moved—with unpolished brasses and dirty decks; in charge of all, a tall youth, unshaven like the rest, and gaunt from sickness, who hardly knew a nautical phrase, who shook the little officer's hand with a ferocity of welcome that made him change color, and whose uniform consisted of a pair of dirty khaki trousers and a khaki shirt, open at the neck; and behind us, wallowing in the trough of the sea as the Ella lay to, the jolly-boat, so miscalled, with its sinister cargo.

The Buenos Aires went on, leaving us a bit cheered, perhaps, but none the better off, except that she verified our bearings. The after house had taken no notice of the incident. None of the women had appeared, nor did they make any inquiry of the cook when he carried down their dinner that night. As entirely as possible, during the week that had passed, they had kept to themselves. Turner was better, I imagined; but, the few times when Elsa Lee appeared at the companion for a breath of air, I was off duty and missed her. I thought it was by design, and I was desperate for a sight of her.

Mrs. Johns came on deck once or twice while I was there, but she chose to ignore me. The stewardess, however, was not so partisan, and the day before we met the Buenos Aires she spent a little time on deck, leaning against the rail and watching me with alert dark eyes.

"What are you going to do when you get to land, Mr. Captain Leslie?" she asked. "Are you going to put us all in prison,"

"That's as may be," I evaded. She was a pretty little woman, plump and dark, and she slid her hand along the rail until it touched mine. Whereon, I did the thing she was expecting, and put my fingers over hers. She flushed a little, and dimpled.

"You are human, aren't you?" she asked archly. "I am not afraid of you."

"No one is, I am sure."

"Silly! Why, they are all afraid of you, down there." She jerked her head toward the after house. "They want to offer you something, but none of them will do it."

"Offer me something?"

She came a little closer, so that her round shoulder touched mine.

"Why not? You need money, I take it. And that's the one thing they have—money."

I began to understand her.

"I see," I said slowly. "They want to bribe me."

She shrugged her shoulders.

"That is a nasty word. They might wish to buy—a key or two that you carry."

"The storeroom key, of course. But what other?"

She looked around—we were alone. A light breeze filled the sails and flicked the end of a scarf she wore against my face.

"The key to the captain's cabin," she said, very low.

That was what they wished to buy: the incriminating key to the storeroom, found on Turner's floor, and access to the axe, with its telling prints on the handle.

The stewardess saw my face harden, and put her hand on my arm.

"Now I am afraid of you!" she cried. "When you look like that!"

"Mrs. Sloane," I said, "I do not know that you were asked to do this—I think not. But if you were, say for me what I am willing to say for myself: I shall tell what I know, and there is not money enough in the world to prevent my telling it straight. The right man is going to be punished, and the key to the storeroom will be given to the police, and to no one else."

"But—the other key?"

"That is not in my keeping."

"I do not believe you!"

"I am sorry," I said shortly. "As a matter of fact, Burns has that."

By the look of triumph in her eyes I knew I had told her what she wanted to know. She went below soon after, and I warned Burns that he would probably be approached in the same way.

"Not that I am afraid," I added. "But—keep the little Sloane woman at a distance. She's quite capable of mesmerizing you with her eyes and robbing you with her hands at the same time."

"I'd rather you'd carry it," he said, "although I'm not afraid of the lady. It's not likely, after—"

He did not finish, but glanced aft toward the jolly-boat. Poor Burns! I believe he had really cared for the Danish girl. Perhaps I was foolish, but I refused to take the key from him; I felt sure he could be trusted.

The murders had been committed on the early morning of Wednesday, the 12th. It was on the following Tuesday that Mrs. Sloane and I had our little conversation on deck, and on Wednesday we came up with the Buenos Aires.

It was on Friday, therefore, two days after the cargo steamer had slid over the edge of the ocean, and left us, motionless, a painted ship upon a painted sea, that the incident happened that completed the demoralization of the crew.

For almost a week the lookouts had reported "All's well" in response to the striking of the ship's bell. The hysteria, as Burns and I dubbed it, of the white figure had died away as the men's nerves grew less irritated. Although we had found no absolute explanation of the marlinespike, an obvious one suggested itself. The men, although giving up their weapons without protest, had grumbled somewhat over being left without means of defense. It was entirely possible, we agreed, that the marlinespike had been so disposed, as some seaman's resort in time of need.

The cook, taking down the dinner on Friday evening, reported Mr. Turner up and about and partly dressed. The heat was frightful. All day we had had a following breeze, and it had been necessary to lengthen the towing-rope, dropping the jolly-boat well behind us. The men, saying little or nothing, dozed under their canvas; the helmsman drooped at the wheel. Under our feet the boards sent up simmering heat waves, and the brasses were too hot to touch.

At four o'clock Elsa Lee came on deck, and spoke to me for the first time in several days. She started when she saw me, and no wonder. In the frenzied caution of the day after the crimes, I had flung every razor overboard, and the result was as villainous a set of men as I have ever seen.

"Have you been ill again?" she asked.

I put my hand to my chin. "Not ill," I said; "merely unshaven."

"But you are pale, and your eyes are sunk in your head."

"We are very short-handed and —no one has slept much."

"Or eaten at all, I imagine," she said. "When do wet get in?"

"I can hardly say. With this wind, perhaps Tuesday."

"Where?"

"Philadelphia."

"You intend to turn the yacht over to the police?"

"Yes, Miss Lee."

"Every one on it "

"That is up to the police. They will probably not hold the women. You will be released, I imagine, on your own recognizance."

"And—Mr. Turner?"

"He will have to take his luck with the rest of us."

She asked me no further questions, but switched at once to what had brought her on deck.

"The cabin is unbearable," she said. "We are willing to take the risk of opening the after companion door."

But I could not allow this, and I tried to explain my reasons. The crew were quartered there, for one; for the other, whether they were willing to take the risk or not, I would not open it without placing a guard there, and we had no one to spare for the duty. I suggested that they use the part of the deck reserved for them, where it was fairly cool under the awning; and, after a dispute be-

Hudson-Essex Agents To Greet Glendale Friends

Invitations that were sent out during the past week have notified the motoring public of Glendale and the surrounding territory of the fact that the Kelley Motor Company would hold open house this afternoon and tonight at their handsome new home at 816 South Brand boulevard, where the work that has been under way for the past two months has finally been completed, and where one of the finest automobile showrooms and service stations in the southland stands ready to care for every desire of the autoist.

The public will be welcomed to the new home of the Hudson and the Essex cars between the hours of 2:30 and 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock at night, and during those times the guests will be received by Porter A. Kelley and his associates and will be given an opportunity to explore the establishment from one end to the other, to see the commodious service department and to inspect the latest models of Hudson and Essex cars that the firm has just received from the factory for this occasion. Music and light refreshments will also add to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Room to Show Cars

The showroom covers a space of 38 by 40 feet, with the walls harmoniously tinted in green, gold and old rose. The lighting system, furnished by wide, high windows during the day and by special electric lights at night, permits prospective buyers to inspect the cars that are on the floor under the most favorable circumstances, and the pleasure is further heightened by the manner in which the sales force explains the various fine points of the different models.

The business offices are housed on the mezzanine floor.

Expert Mechanics

In the service department, which covers a space of 50 by 50 feet, every possible facility is installed to look after the cars that are brought in, and expert mechanics are employed who have specialized for years on the two lines that the Kelley Motor company carries and sells on such an important scale. George Bard heads the mechanical force, and his knowledge of Hudsons and Essex cars goes back for many years.

Every one in Glendale is invited to attend the formal opening of the Kelley Motor company's new home, and everything possible will be done to make their visit entertaining and instructive.

ADVERTISING ESSENTIAL TO TRADE

Necessary Cog in Business Machinery, Is Realty Experts' Claim

By C. C. C. TATUM
Vice President National Association of Real Estate Boards; Vice President Los Angeles Realty Board; Former President California Real Estate Association.

Advertsing is a typical American institution. It is part and parcel of our economic structure. No other nation has business men who advertise like they do in the United States. No other nation has gone ahead so rapidly.

Don't look at advertising as a thing apart. It isn't. It is involved in your real estate business just as much as your bank balance. Advertising is a cog in the machinery of selling that cannot be omitted, because it is not an experimental quantity lying off to one side to be picked up occasionally and then tossed aside again.

Subdivisions Possible

The powerful rays of publicity have made possible in Los Angeles the selling of subdivisions on an unprecedented scale. On the other hand, the opening up of subdivisions has made possible to a certain extent the enlargement and growth of the conveyors of the printed word. If advertising hadn't been employed in selling these lots, the assessor in our country couldnt say that after a twelve months' interval he had to list more thar a thousand additional tracts containing 80,000 lots. Mind you, that all this has taken place within a year.

Without the stimulation provided by advertising, this number of subdivisios, with these thousands of lots could not have been placed on the market in our city and the individual parcels of land placed in the hands of so many benefited owners.

Results Instantaneous

Advertising, as I have said, is typically American. It is a quick convenient direct way to bring things about. Advertising provides a means of producing instantaneous resuts, comparatively speaking. No better proof of representative American business push can be found than in the converting of acres of land into lots owned

Realtors Plan Survey Of Rental Prices In Cities

A comprehensive survey of what prices actually are paid for residential rents in cities over the United States and Canada will be made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards through questionnaires sent out to its member boards in approximately 500 cities.

The inquiry will also go into the question of what way rents are tending in each city, and of what proportion of the family's rent bill in each community goes directly to pay taxes on the property occupied.

The survey is expected to be the most complete examination ever made of rents actually now being paid. Previous surveys, notably those of the United States Department of Labor and of the Industrial Conference Board, have covered only rents being paid for working men's dwellings, it is pointed out.

Constituent real estate boards in each city have been asked to appoint a special committee of the best informed men in their memberships to answer the inquiry. Findings will be tabulated, showing the situation by individual cities.

The inquiry is expected to put a foundation of ascertained fact before rent payers, property owners, realtors and the general public as to rent prices and conditions.

The survey will cover three classifications of property, hitting both the extremes and the mean of the rent scale. It designates as those classifications (a) high class apartments and residences in best residential districts, (b) middle class residences and apartments in moderately priced districts, and (c) cheap structures in the poorest residential locations. As to each classification it asks for each city answers to the following questions:

One—What rent per room is now being charged?

Two—What per cent of the gross annual rent of this type of structure is now being absorbed in taxation?

Three—What is the present tendency of rents in this type of structure?

Thrift For Home Ownership Campaign Embraces Plan To Budget Family Outlay

Better Homes in America, the educational movement now in its third year of endeavoring to assist American families in securing for themselves the best possible homes, according to their means, has for one of its aims "thrift for home ownership." The budgeting of household outlay, scientific management of the home, books, music, the general beautification of the home in the most economical and best way are other objects of the movement.

Particular attention will be paid to model homes for families of moderate or small incomes by Better Homes in America this year. Dr. John M. Gries, chief of the Division of Building and Housing of the Department of Commerce and treasurer of Better Homes in America, and his assistant, James S. Taylor, have compiled for the department financing tables for buying homes for families whose annual incomes range from $1200 to $6000. In considering the tables it is recognized that families having the same income may not be able to devote the same amounts toward the purchase of a house. For instance, a family of two without dependents, situated in a village, where living costs are low can afford to pay out more each year for buying a home than a family enjoying the same income, but having children and living in a large city where living costs are higher For that reason, overlapping incomes are used in the tables prepared by Dr. Gries and Mr. Taylor, and no attempt was made to set up arbitrary standards. However, it is pointed out that the tables are "fairly typical," and should be useful to many prospective home owners.

In the first table, it is assumed that the first cash payment made

REAL ESTATE COURSE IS POPULAR

Lessons and Lectures Are in Big Demand Among Business Men

By A. WILLIAM OLMSTEAD,
Director of University of Southern California Extension Division.

For some time there has been felt a need for a complete program of real estate education. The business of real estate brokerage is emerging into a profession.

A profession demands the provision of a full curriculum which will enable those preparing to work in this field to secure adequate training and to become well grounded in the fundamental economic principles involved. Not so many years ago the lawyer got his training in the office. The same was true with other professions. The modern standard, however, has been raised and gives to the student the benefit of the experiences of those who have gone before. There is no reason why these same benefits cannot be offered to those engaged in the real estate business.

The California Real Estate Association has worked out in cooperation with the University of Southern California perhaps the most complete educational program in existence. Real estate here is a major economic enterprise and we have perhaps the best opportunity to lead the way in this field. Others already are copying plans that have been successfully projected here. The realty board real estate courses are becoming continually more popular and it is probable that by October the majority of the boards in the state will have adopted the plan, and will be offering an opportunity for actual residence study in the whole field of real estate methods and practice.

Correspondence Instruction

A provision has also been made for correspondence instruction for those who are not so situated to take advantage of the realty board plan. Each lesson is corrected by an expert and constructive suggestions given whenever necessary. The same material is furnished for study as is used by the Realty Board classes. The certificate which is given at the conclusion of the course will be the highest recognition of educational standard which is now available in this field. The course covers everything which is directly involved in real estate brokerage and in addition many items of collateral interest. The group listed

Multiple Listing in New Orleans to Stay

The New Orleans Real Estate Agents' association is getting ready to send to other cities represented within the National Association of Real Estate boards moving pictures of its "seven-million-dollar baby." The "baby" is the multiple listing system for cooperative real estate selling, installed in New Orleans a year ago. In its first year of operation the system sold property totaling in value $7,103,289, the highest amount of property reported to the National Association of Real Estate boards from sales through the multiple listing system of any real estate board in its membership.

The New Orleans "baby" led the association also in the amount of revenue derived by boards through operation of a multiple listing system. Operation of the system has been followed by the listing of more property than has ever before been listed in the city's history, and has been a strong factor in the growth of a greater co-operative spirit among Realtors, officers of the board declared at the baby's first birthday party, a jubilee affair. The moving pictures of operation of the selling system will also carry with the pictures showing the city's industrial and general progress.

HAVE MONTHLY SURVEY

Supplementing in the local field the periodic surveys of real estate market conditions compiled by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the Winston-Salem Real Estate Board, Winston and Salem, N. C., is making for its members a monthly survey of sales, vacancies, rental shortage and real estate activity by city districts.

ZIMMERMAN COMING

T. W. Zimmerman, secretary-manager of the Northwest Real Estate association, sends word that he is planning to spend two weeks in California next fall, and will arrange to attend the Pasadena state convention. "Zim" was a welcome visitor at the Sacramento convention.

GIVE AID IN PLANS FOR INDUSTRY

Enthusiasm Growing in Move to Advance Business Interests Here

The Greater Los Angeles area has during the past few days been swept with enthusiasm over the industrial movement initiated by the Greater Los Angeles association. From Santa Monica, Wilmington and Long Beach on the west to Glendora and eastward, meetings are being held daily and membership drives organized to enroll the army of 25,000 workers who are wanted to carry the messages—"Keep the White Spot White" and "Southern California Straight Ahead"—to every man and woman in the southland.

In Los Angeles the movement has met with the readiest and most enthusiastic kind of response. The banks, merchandising houses, manufacturing concerns and other lines of business are solidly behind the association and its work. Not only are multiple memberships pouring in from these institutions unsolicited—many concerns taking from twenty to fifty memberships each—but also a flood of letters of commendation, endorsing the idea of an industrial finance corporation to furnish money for new industries that wish to come to Greater Los Angeles, as well as for local industries already established that seek financial aid for expansion.

Bay District Meeting

One of the most enthusiastic meetings yet held was that at the Miramar hotel at Santa Monica, where 300 business men from the bay district, including Venice, Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Sawtelle, met and organized a bay district division of the association for a membership drive under the leadership of Harry M. Gorham, a pioneer banker of Santa Monica. The objective is 1,000 members.

The San Fernando and San Gabriel valleys are well organized and the membership drives are bringing big results. Glendale and Hollywood have each had two big mass meetings of business men, whose organization teams are now rolling up the lists of men and women who want to get behind the movement. Glendora, Hermosa Beach, Anaheim, Fullerton, Long Beach, Huntington Park, Norwalk and Alhambra have all endorsed the association through their chambers of commerce and are busy perfecting their local organizations.

Explains Objects

The Greater Los Angeles association, it is explained by the president, Harry M. Merrick, is being organized to bridge the gap between manufacturing industries, already established in the Greater Los Angeles territory or who wish to move their plants here and who need financial assistance, and the chambers of commerce of the various Greater Los Angeles communities that are seeking to get these industries into their districts. It has not been found practicable for chambers of commerce to undertake The Southern California banks have not reached the point where they are able to underwrite industrial securities and so finance manufacturers. Eastern banks

Australian Realtors to Attend Convention

The Real Estate Institute of New South Wales, Australia, will be invited by the National Association of Real Estate Boards to send a representation to the coming annual convention of the realtors of the United States and Canada in Washington, D. C., June 3-6, and to take part in the convention conferences. Australian provincial and local bodies are following closely the upbuilding in America of the realtor's qualifications and status. Growing real estate board use of advertising in acquainting the public with the advantages of real estate as an investment is interesting the Australian real estate boards. The Melbourne, Australia, group has signified its intention of following in some detail in a coming advertising series the plan of the advertising campaign recently conducted by the Kansas City, Mo., Real Estate Board.

Real estate problems in Australia are more closely parallel to those in the United States and Canada than they are to English situations, a recent letter to the national association from Richard Stanton, president of the New South Wales Institute, brings out.

The University of London will now award a bachelor of science degree in estate management for people practicing real estate who pass satisfactory examinations, according to an announcement received by the National Association of Real Estate Boards from the College of Estate Management, London.

Glendale Holding Good Position In Building Records

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

Standing sixth in a list of the fifty leading cities of the Pacific Southwest, in April building permits, Glendale can well be proud, though the total of $626,754 may not fully satisfy those who have come to expect $1,000,000 a month. But then, Long Beach must be content with less than the million mark for April, standing fifth with a total of $865,470.

A year ago, in April of 1923, Long Beach rolled up $2,260,272 in permits, indicating that building there was far more lively last April. While in Glendale for the corresponding month a year ago, the total was $582,998, less by $43,756 than for April just past.

LOS ANGELES IN FIRST POSITION

Los Angeles came first with $13,224,568 in permits issued during April of 1924, San Diego was second with $1,567,734, Pasadena third with $1,290,159, and Santa Monica fourth with $878,145.

San Francisco, in April of 1924, did only $5,036,673 in building, and that city's total for the first four months of this year is but $16,780,185, not much more than Los Angeles did in April alone.

Of the fifty leading cities of the Pacific Southwest in this survey, Tucson, Ariz., comes seventh, with $508,176, falling behind Glendale, whereas last year it led Glendale, having $585,810 in permits for April, 1923, to this city's $582,998.

GLENDALE LEADS NUMEROUS CITIES

Among other big Southwest cities forced to acknowledge that Glendale is growing faster than they, are San Bernardino, Pomona, Santa Ana, Alhambra, Monrovia, Beverly Hills, Huntington Park and Riverside. HUGE STOCK OF LUMBER IS USED

Southern California's Needs Call for More Than State of New York

Southern California used more lumber in 1923 than did the whole state of New York during the year of the last official census, with enough left over to provide homes for a complete new city the size of Des Moines.

Enough lumber was brought into Los Angeles harbor in 1923 to build 202,000 five-room bungalows. In other words, lumber boats brought in last year the equivalent of 554 bungalows a day. This is a statement in the current number of Southern California Business, official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

But this lumber was not used entirely in the construction of homes nor was all of it used exclusively in Los Angeles. It is estimated that about 30 per cent of it went into other sections of California and into Arizona.

However, out of the total of 2,021,336,321 board feet 1,414,936,000 board feet remained in the city.

The total for the entire state of New York, according to the last census, was 1,279,795,750 board feet, and that was New York's largest use of lumber up to that time.

Entire New City

Of the lumber that remained in Los Angeles last year most of it went into dwellings. Granting that 25 per cent was used for other purposes, there still remained 1,060,976,000 board feet. This was enough to construct 106,000 five-room bungalows.

These bungalows each placed on a 50-foot lot would make a string 1000 miles long or enough to build solid on both sides of the

SIGN UP FOR REALTORS' SPECIAL

Reservations for Trip to Washington Meet Are Being Made Now

Reservations for the All-California and Western Realtors special train to Washington for the national real estate convention are being made through the California Real Estate Association offices in Los Angeles.

Thus far more than fifty reservations have been made, and an additional fifty are needed to insure getting the train. The special will leave via the Union Pacific on May 28, starting from San Francisco, Portland and Los Angeles on the same date. It will be a complete train of sleepers, and will arrive at Washington the evening of June 1. The convention will open two days later.

A large number of realtors from the Northwest and states enroute will join the All Western special. President F. S. Barrett will be at the head of the Northwest delegation, and President Henry P. Barbour will head the California delegation.

The delegates will have stopovers at Salt Lake City and Chicago, and will be accompanied by the Oakland Real Estate Board Glee Club which will furnish concerts at several points of interest where the delegates will be entertained.

Following the convention the Oakland Glee Club will spend several weeks presenting the Oakland and California real estate development program before leading real estate boards of the East.

Reserve Rooms Now

President Barbour has appealed to all California delegates to send in their train and hotel reservations promptly. "We are going to have such a large crowd that I am sure you will want to be at the California hotel headquarters in Washington," the president said, "so notify us to reserve not only your train berth or compartment, but also your room in the Washington Hotel."

The Los Angeles and Oakland real estate boards are co-operating with the state association in making the trip eastward a big success. President W. L. Brent of the Los Angeles board and President Willard W. White of the Oakland board are conferring with the state association chairman, C. C. C. Tatum, of Los Angeles, and Fred F. Reed, of Oakland, to make the trip a big constructive benefit to the entire state of California.

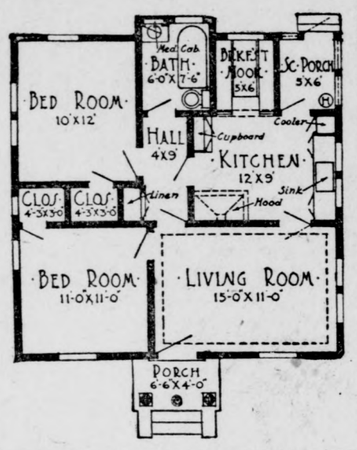
Women's Special Car

According to present plans there will be a special presidents car known as the California, of standard drawing room and compartments. In this car will be President Barbour and several board presidents.

A large number of women realtors are planning to make the trip and they will also have a special car.

Follows Colonial Lines

Built-in features make this commodious home an appealing one to the man who desires to build a house that will afford the maximum of comfort at a moderate price Courtesy of the Low Building Co., authorized agents for the Pacific Ready-Cut Homes.



When this plan was designed, the instruction given to the architect was to create a home that could be built for the lowest possible cost and still retain most of the features that are shown in a home costing twice as much. So the architect set to work and designed this Colonial house. It is built of strongest materials, including 2" x 4" rafters, 2" x 6" floor joists, 4" x 4" girlers and 4" x 4" underpins on piers. The home is designed for lath and plaster finish, and the outside of the building is covered with water-proofing insulating felt, over which is laid ¾" x 9" rabbeted and beveled redwood surfaced siding.

Built-in features include a linen closet, medicine cabinet, cooler, kitchen cupboard, drain board and a breakfast nook that is equipped with a Pullman table and built-in seats. The interior, according to specifications, is in two coats of flat and one coat of enamel, while the floors are finished with liquid filler and varnish. Of course hard wood floors can be laid at additional cost. Plan for this home can be inspected at the office of the local distributor of Pacific Homes.

Brokerage And Leasing Experts Join Staff Of Local Realty Organization

Twining & Myers announced today the reorganization of their general real estate department and an increase of its activities under the direction of L. E. Fuller, as manager.

In speaking of the step which is expected to result in giving better service to the clients of this firm of well-known realtors, W. L. Twining said:

"For some time past, Mr. Myers and I have had this plan in view, for we found that our subdivision work at Woodland Park, Burton Heights and Mesa Crest was taking so much of our time that we felt we should have someone in charge of our brokerage business to give it closer attention than we were able to. Mr. Fuller will devote all of his time to this work and we will be in a better position in the future to serve the wishes of our clients than ever before.

Wide Experience

"Mr. Fuller's experience in real estate was gained in San Francisco and on the peninsula just south of there. He dealt particularly in high-class residential properties about Burlingame and San Mateo. He has managed or handled publicity for a number of civic organizations in the state, including the San Mateo County Development association, San Francisco Real Estate Board and the Sacramento Valley Development association, and since moving south last July has been engaged in subdivision work."

The appointment of Miss Anna Venneman as a member of their general real estate department was also announced, in line with the firm's determined policy to make the service of it as efficient as possible. Speaking of Miss Venneman's appointment, Mr. Twining said:

Woman's Judgment

"It has always been my opinion that a woman is a quicker and better judge of what women clients desire in the way of a home or apartment than a man. It is natural that she should be, and we think we are fortunate in having Miss Venneman associated with us, not only on this account but also because of her judgment. Her training as a public accountant has so schooled her analytical ability that she can thoroughly sift all angles of the various financial phases always arising in realty transactions. During her residence in Glendale she has certainly gained a very thorough foundation with regard to values, all of which will react to the benefit of clients of our leasing department, where Miss Venneman's efforts will be centered."

Although Miss Venneman has been in California only a comparatively short time, she has herself already become inoculated with the Southern California germ and has made investments in well located property, both in Glendale and La Crescenta. Since her arrival in Glendale she has made a large number of friends and acquaintances and is favorably known as an active and thoughtful member of the Tuesday Afternoon club. The major portion of her time for the present will be devoted to the rentals and leases of Twining & Myers and especially to those listings which will fill the wants of the many new families moving to Glendale daily.

The greater the initial payment, the smaller in proportion the annual charges will be. The tables provide for clearing the home of all indebtedness in about twelve years if the payments prescribed in the tables are continued regularly.

SOUTHLAND AIDS INDUSTRY PLANS

Business Men Rally Eagerly to Keep California's White Spot White

will not finance western industries or help manufacturers who wish to move to the Pacific coast. Therefore, it has become necessary for Los Angeles business men and those of the other cities in the Greater Los Angeles area to solve the problem by creating a financing corporation to bring new industries to Southern California. This is the prime purpose of the Greater Los Angeles association, which in no way will duplicate the work of the existing commercial bodies or other civic or commercial organizations.

The association is now completing the details for the incorporation of the Industrial Finance Corporation of Greater Los Angeles with $50,000,000 capital. All the expense of organization of this institution will be borne by the Greater Los Angeles association, so that all of the money subscribed by the public to its stock will be placed in the treasury. After the first year it is expected that the Finance corporation's stock will pay 6 per cent per year to the stockholders. In no event will more than 8 per cent per annum be paid. Any profit above that figure made by the finance corporation will be returned to the treasury to be used again in financing industries.

To Aid Industries

The capital of the finance corporation will be a revolving fund, not used for the purchase of stock in any industrial enterprise, but only to buy its bonds on the same plan and in accordance with the principles used by banks in extending similar financial assistance to industries. Before financial assistance is given to any industry, that industry will be thoroughly investigated by the finance corporation's engineers and industrial experts to determine its soundness, its past manufacturing record and its ability to manufacture its goods profitably in Los Angeles and market its goods to advantage from here. At the proper time the bonds taken over from these industries will be offered to the public and the returns from such sales, with interest, will be returned to the original fund to be used again for other flotations. In this manner, and possibly through enlarging the capital stock of the finance corporation, it is expected that eventually a revolving fund of $150,000,000 per annum will be available for expanding industries in Greater Los Angeles.

Los Angeles business men fully appreciate the fact that high prices of land within the city are making it more and more necessary for new industries to locate in the outside towns of Greater Los Angeles. Every effort will be made to find the right place for the right industry, so locating it as to give the necessary advantages of climate, proximity to raw materials and transportation, either land or water, and taking into consideration other factors. In this manner it is believed that Los Angeles will most quickly be built up into the greatest manufacturing city in the world.

Other announcements were by Merle Armitage, impresario, of the Los Angeles Grand Opera association, more information on this being given in another column of this issue of The Glendale Evening News; of the meeting of the artists' department Friday night, May 16 at the home of Mrs. Leroy Bosserman, 614 South Central avenue, with Madame Gloria Bretherton in charge of the program; of the junior auxiliary meeting Saturday night, May 24, with Miss Beulah Dunbar at 355 West Doran street, with Mrs. Gertrude Erb in charge, a full attendance being desired as it is the last meeting.

Annual Election

Mrs. Rigdon stated that the annual election of officers will take place at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, May 16, in the music room at the Harvard High school. Active members will be eligible to vote.

It has been decided that in respect to the memory of the late Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, the annual banquet will not be held in June. At the meeting the second Friday in October there will be a banquet welcoming Mrs. Jones home.

Last night R. Ernest Tucker spoke briefly on community music.

In recognition of National Music week it was an open meeting and many friends of the club enjoyed with members the wonderful program given by Bralm Van den Berg of 1131 North Adams place, American pianist, and Ettore Campana, baritone.

FINDS BIG BED

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., May 10.—Feador Chaliapin, Russian opera star, finally found a hotel bed in which he could sleep comfortably, he announced here with a chuckle, while resting after his tour with the Chicago Grand Opera company.

With only a few words of English at his command, Chaliapin launched into fiery Russian to pay his respects to the Pullman car bed, so short that, he says, he has to sleep twisted like a pretzel.

The monarch of song declared that the American bed is a terrible institution and that in its present size it should be barred by law.

Chaliapin is six feet four inches tall.

road all the way from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

This would be dwellings enough with an average of four to a family to provide for a population equal to a city the size of New Orleans or Cincinnati or the two cities of Atlanta, Georgia, and Albany, New York, combined.

Imports Increase

There has been a tremendous increase in the import of lumber. The year 1921 broke the record board feet; 1922 almost doubled up to that time with 614,098,918 that with 1,159,475,383 board feet. Then came the greatest year of all, 1923, with 2,021,336,321 board feet. The 1921 lumber import was valued at approximately $15,000,000, while that of last year ran well over $60,000,000.

At the rate lumber is coming into Los Angeles at present 1924 will run close to 3,000,000,000 board feet. The demand for lumber in all the communities in Southern California outside the city of Los Angeles is increasing in direct proportions to the demand in Los Angeles. All this means that the 1924 building record will undoubtedly eclipse the 1923 record in Los Angeles alone by at least $35,000,000, bringing the total well over $235,000,000.

With the rate of increase being scored by outside communities in Southern California, practically every city and town south of the Tehachapis will show a snug increase over any past year.

DIRECTOR NAMED FOR CHAUTAUQUA

H. A. Twomey Reaches City from Phoenix to Look After Programs

H. A. Twomey, who will act as director of the Glendale Chautauqua, arrived in the city yesterday from Phoenix, Ariz., and lost no time in getting into action. He spent the afternoon talking at several schools relative to the program to be presented here by the Ellison-White company, commencing next Wednesday afternoon.

He states that the program has met with an enthusiastic reception everywhere it has been presented, and assures the local committee, of which Raul Periera is chairman, that it is ahead of anything of this nature that has ever been presented in Glendale.

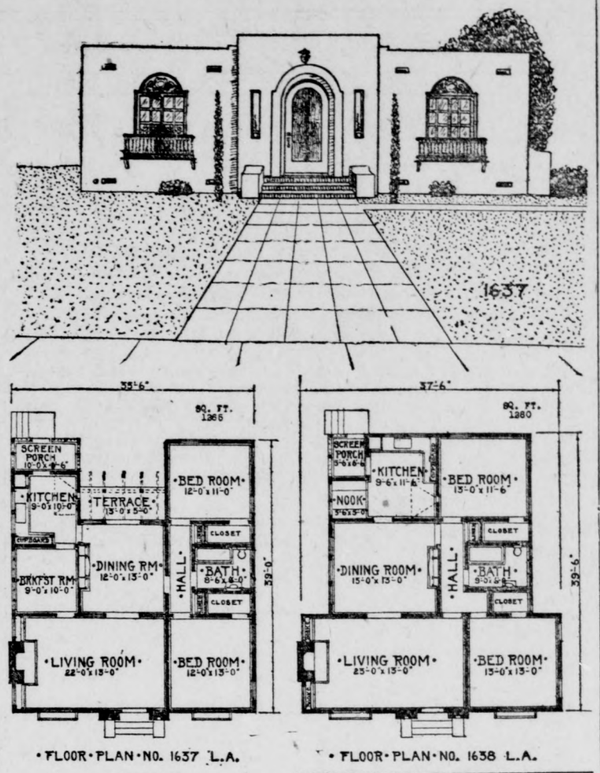
The big tent will arrive on Monday, together with the superintendent of the junior department, and everything will be ready for the opening on Wednesday.

The committee reports that the sale of tickets is encouraging, but that many who are able to respond have not done so, and urge immediate action so that the guarantee may be raised. Tickets may be purchased at the office of the secretary, G. E. Leatom, 212½ West Broadway, Robinson's Men's Shop, 114 South Brand, and the Monarch Auto Supply company, 204 South Brand.

An examination of 100,000 words of the English language shows that 60,000 are of Teutonic origin, 30,000 of Greek or Latin origin, and 10,000 derived from other foreign sources.

Thrift Is Vital Need

Accumulation of sufficient funds to finance the building of one's own home is the shortest and most certain way to attain one's desires. A planning service is a distinct aid in enabling a man to decide on the type of home he is going to build.



There are no magic methods by which a home can be created out of nothing. Only thrift and saving can do it, says Donald R. Gillin, service manager of Bentley Lumber Company, situated at 460 West Los Feliz road.

When a man decides that he needs a hat, for instance—some two or three months after his wife has decided the same thing, he realizes that he must finance the hat, usually to the extent of a payment down of one hundred per cent of its cost, or payment in full at the end of the month if he is using his credit. Whereas, there is a very small percentage of home owners who buy a home outright, it behooves the man with a desire for a home, to create a nest egg by systematic saving and self denial, for, by this method he will become the proud possessor of his own home. There are even some people who seem to think that a good job is all that is necessary, and that no preliminary saving or accumulation of funds is essential on their part.

However, buying a home is just like buying anything else. Sooner or later it has to be paid for. The man or woman who wishes to secure his or her home, and who is willing to save and sacrifice for that purpose will attain the goal by the constant putting away of small amounts to accumulate a principal sum large enough so that a complete home may be financed.

It is a matter of common knowledge that home builders are in general the kind of people we like to have as neighbors, and the type of people who are Uncle Sam's best citizens. For the home builder who has created an amount sufficient for the erection of a home, Bentley Lumber Company maintain for their convenience, a modern, up-to-date plan service department. Here you may solve your building problems and inspect hundreds of homes from which you may choose the home which meets your requirements, and fit into your way of living. There is a home for every pocketbook, plans may be had immediately and there is no charge for plans to customers, this being a part of the service the company renders to its patrons.

Preliminary Surveys For Convention Made

The California Real Estate association this week is making a preliminary survey of the local realty boards to ascertain the probable number of delegates to the national real estate convention in Washington. The special train will leave Los Angeles and San Francisco on May 29 and arrive in Washington June 2. California headquarters will be at the New Washington hotel.

Already advance indications are for a delegation of forty from Los Angeles, fifteen from San Francisco and fifteen from Oakland, and smaller delegations from Long Beach, Pasadena, Santa Ana, Downey, Huntington Park, Berkeley, Stockton, Sacramento and Santa Barbara. San Diego will have at least a half dozen delegates.

President Henry P. Barbour is arranging for an All-California Realtors' chorus to be aboard the all-western train.

The Southwest Realty Board of Los Angeles plans to have at least forty delegates on its trip to Washington, and will leave California about May 26, stopping at great cities and visiting realty boards en route.

Refuses to Testify In Oil Scandal Quiz

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Edward L. Doheny, Jr., son of the lessee of Elk Hills Naval reserve, who carried the famous "little black satchel" containing $100,000 from New York to Washington and turned it over to Albert B. Fall, refused to testify when he appeared a few days ago before the federal grand jury that is probing the criminal aspects of the oil scandal.

Doheny's refusal to testify was revealed yesterday when the grand jury reported to Justice Hitz. The court immediately ordered Doheny to show cause on May 16 why he should not be compelled to testify.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND MR. CHEER UP

"Ting-a-ling!" rang the telephone bell in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one day.

"Yes! Yes! What is it?" asked the rabbit gentleman, as he spoke into the telephone and listened. Over the wire a voice said:

"Your friend, Mr. Cheer Up, wants to know if he may come to see you. He is in great trouble!"

"Trouble? Mr. Cheer Up in trouble!" cried Uncle Wiggily, almost dropping the telephone, he was so excited. "Why, I don't know any one named Mr. Cheer Up," he went on. "Though, of course, I should like to help any one in trouble. Mr. Cheer Up—who can he be?"

Just then, out in the apple tree, a jolly voice sang:

"Cheer up! Cheer up! Tra-la-la!"

"Oh, that's a robin—a red-breasted robin!" laughed Uncle Wiggily! "He sings a song of cheer up, so that must be his name." Then, speaking into the telephone, the bunny gentleman said: "But I hear you singing, Mr. Cheer Up, so you can't be in so very much trouble. However, come to my bungalow and I will help you if I can!"

"I am not singin'," spoke a voice over the telephone. "I am a red breasted robin, and I am Mr. Cheer Up, but it is another robin whom you hear singing. I am too sad to sing."

"Then hurry here and I shall try to help you!" promised Mr. Longears. He hopped away from the telephone, while out in the tree the other bird sang again.

"Cheer up! Cheer up! Tra-la-la!"

"One robin is sad—another robin is happy. I must make them both happy," thought the rabbit, as he waited for Mr. Cheer Up to fly in. And when at last the bird came Uncle Wiggily hardly knew him. For, instead of having a breast of bright red feathers Mr. Cheer Up's breast was black.

"Oh, what happened to you, my dear friend?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"It was my fountain pen," answered the robin. "I wanted to see if it had any ink in it, and I shook it to find out. There was ink in it and it spattered out, all of a sudden, and splashed on my red feathers.

"This happened at the music store where I work. I tried to get the ink off, but it only grew more black. I was afraid to go home and let my wife see what had happened so I telephoned to you. Can't you help me?" sadly chirped the bird.

"I'll try to help you," said Uncle Wiggily. "But why are you afraid to go home and let your wife see you, Mr. Cheer Up."

"Because the first thing Mrs. Cheer Up looks for when I come flying to the nest is my red vest of feathers," said the robin. "Now, if I fly up and she sees black instead of red she will think I am a strange bird. It may frighten her, and, as she is hatching out the eggs, she may flutter on them, break the shells, and I shall have no little robin birds. Oh, what am I to do?" he cried. "I don't dare go home with a black vest instead of red, and yet if I don't go home my wife will worry and she may break the eggs anyhow. Oh, it's just terrible!"

"It is too bad!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"Nonsense!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy. "Nonsense! This trouble is soon done away with." She had been listening to the story told by Mr. Cheer Up.

"How can we help him?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Very easily!" said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "It will take some time for the fountain pen ink spots to wear off the red feathers. While he is waiting for that he should wear a vest of rose leaves or flannel. Since it is too early yet, for roses around here, I shall make Mr. Cheer Up a little red vest of flannel which he can wear. Then his wife won't be frightened when she sees him coming home."

"Oh, please make me a red vest, Nurse Jane!" begged Mr. Cheer Up.

So the muskrat lady sewed a very cute little red vest out of red cloth for the robin, and when he tried it on all the black ink spots were covered.

"Now I can safely fly home to my little wife and the eggs in my nest," said Mr. Cheer Up, and he sang a most jolly song. Nurse Jane arose to put away her thimble, thread and needle, which she had used in sewing when, all of a sudden, the Fuzzy Fox leaped into the bungalow.

But do you think the Fox caught Uncle Wiggily? Indeed, he didn't. Nurse Jane stuck the Fox on his nose with the needle, and Mr. Cheer Up, with his sharp beak, flew at the Fox and almost picked his eyes out! And the Fox bawled "Wowchie" and away he ran.

Then the robin flew home to his wife, who didn't know, until all the ink spots were worn off, that her husband had been wearing a red flannel vest. And Uncle Wiggily was very glad he and Nurse Jane had helped Mr. Cheer Up.

So if the stove pipe doesn't blow smoke through the keyhole into the eye of the needle and make it tired, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Bobby's splashes.

Laughs At Quarantine

HELEN KAMMAN, whose young sister's measles forced the rest of the family to remain at home, defies the law and runs off to wed CLAIRE BOIKE, JR.

DETROIT, May 10.—Love has been laughing at locksmiths ever since the reformers first predicted the world was going to the bow-wows. Now love has taken to smiling broadly at quarantines as well. Miss Helen Kamman, 18, of this city, escaped from her home in which she was quarantined because of the illness with the measles of her younger sister, and eloped and married Clair Boike, Jr. Now they are receiving the forgiveness of the family if not of the board of health.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad

By G. AGRONSKY
For International News Service.

JERUSALEM, May 10—Jews of America led those of the rest of the world in their contributions to the Palestine Foundation fund, or Keren Hayesod, according to figures just published by the Zionist organization representatives here.

Of the 1,131,889 pounds spent by the Keren Hayesod in the upbuilding of the Jewish homeland the last thirty months, 738,829 pounds came from America. This is almost 75 per cent of the total of $5,000,000 expended in that period.

Jewish communities in every country of the world, from the wealthy and numerically strong communities of the United States and Canada down to the tiny Jewish group in Caucasia have helped swell the fund.

Notwithstanding the steady flow, the requirements of the reconstruction job in Palestine are shown to have exceeded the moneys available for the purpose. According to the financial statement, the expenditure the last thirty months has been greater by a half million dollars than the actual amount at the disposal of the Keren Hayesod. This had to be covered through loans.

Originally intended as a colonization fund, the Keren Hayesod has had to shoulder many other responsibilities because the non-Zionist Jewish bodies interested in furthering the reconstruction of Palestine have not, on the whole, filled the need with any degree of adequacy. Industrial enterprises, such as cement, brick, flour, salt and soap works are in their initial stages, and the care of the unemployed falls largely upon the Zionist organization. This organization, together with the Baron Edmond de Rothschild Foundation, has solved the unemployment problem by encouraging the planting of tobacco. Tobacco is today the pre-eminent industry in Palestine, employing thousands of persons and holding out promise of much greater development. The suality of the tobacco is said to be uniformly good.

From the figures at hand, it appears the Zionist Organization through its central financial instrument, the Keren Hayesod, has its hand in every activity calculated to help the economic development of the country at large. About $250,000 was contributed toward the electrification project, known as the Rutenberg scheme. Arabic Jaffa is making liberal use of the electrical station in Jewish Tel Aviv. The latter started out as a suburb of Jaffa and today is the peer of Jaffa in numbers, and certainly excels the ancient town in European appearance and modern planning and conveniences.

With a special agency, known as the Jewish National fund, concentrating on the purchase of land, the Heren Hayesod is left with all other tasks properly belonging to the Jewish National fund, concenment in sanitation, health, public works, trade and industry, besides agricultural colonization, which is the largest item in the Zionist budget. The nearly 14,000 Jewish school children in Palestine cost the government almost nothing, since the Zionists are footing the Jewish education bill, amounting to about a half million dollars a year.

ABOUT HOUSE PETERS

House Peters, prominent leading man who recently appeared in "Held to Answer," was born in Bristol, England, and educated, to quote him, "all over the world," having lived at one time or another in Hong Kong, Pekin, Johannesburg, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Melbourne, Sydney and latterly in Hollywood. His travels were occasioned by his theatrical work on the stage before his entrance into filmdom

From Book Of Life

THOUGHT

"Our intellects are confined as well as the strength of our body. Some men are more robust than others; there are also Hercules' with respect to thought; but at bottom this superiority is a very trivial thing. One shall lift ten times as much matter as myself; another can do in his head and without paper, a division of fifteen figures, whilst I can only divide three or four, with much difficulty, here then is the extent of that vaunted strength; its limits are very confined; and therefore in games of combination, no man after having trained himself with great application and long practice, will, with all his efforts, get beyond that degree of perfection allotted him: this is the goal of his intellect. It is absolutely necessary that it should be so, otherwise we should gradually go on to infinity."

Such an idea was Voltaire's. Francois-Marie Arouet, known by his assumed name of Voltaire, was the dominant and typical literary figure of the eighteenth century, on the Continent, at least. Every department of letters then in vogue be cultivated; and in all he showed brilliant powers. He was noted for his freedom of speech, a tendency which led to his being twice exiled from Paris and twice imprisoned in the Bastile.

Voltaire had no patience with the idea that man thinks all his life, night and day, without interruption.

"Man being supposed to have continually possessed ideas, perceptions, and conceptions, it naturally follows, that beasts were likewise always in possession of them; for it is incontestable that a hunting dog has the idea of his master he obeys, and of the game that he brings him. It is evident that he has memory, and that he combines some ideas.

"Thus then if the thought of man be the essence of his soul, that of the dog is the essence of his soul, and if man had always ideas, animals must necessarily have had them also. To remove this difficulty, the manufacturer of whirlwinds and chamfered matter (Voltaire here refers to the philosopher Descartes) dared to say, that beasts were pure machines, who sought for food without appetite, who constantly had the organs of sensation without ever having the least sensation, who cried without pain, who testified joy without pleasure, who possessed a brain incapable of receiving the slightest idea, and who were therefore a perpetual contradiction.

"This system (of thought) was ridiculous; but, instead of exposing extravagance, it was treated as impious. It was pretended that his system was repugant to the Holy Scriptures, which says in Genesis. "And surely your blood of your lives will I require; at the hand of every beast will I require it," which manifestly supposes in beasts a knowledge of, and acquaintance with, good and evil.

Views and Previews — Theatres — News Notes From Studios

By H. THOMPSON RICH of The Evening News Staff

THE GLENDALE

"Jack o' Clubs," featuring Herbert Rawlinson, is the Universal attraction at the Glendale Theatre today.

The story begins when young John Francis Foley, an Irish patrolman, played by Rawlinson, is assigned to duty in the most turbulent section of the city with instructions from his chief to enforce obedience to the law at any cost.

Pretty Tillie Miller, singer in a cafe and sweetheart of Spike Kennedy, gang leader, attracts Officer Foley. But she resents his attention and Spike at once sets out to wreck Foley's career in the district. The policeman outwits him in a fight. Tillie still refuses to notice the officer.

But time comes when she changes her mind, after many exciting episodes culminating in a highly dramatic scene that restores law and order to the community.

JOKE ON REALTORS

George F. Babbitt has created a great deal of interest in Hollywood.

When "Babbitt," the Sinclair Lewis novel now being filmed, was nearing completion it was necessary to use a near-by real estate subdivision for Babbittville, George F. Babbitt's real estate tract.

Bright colored flags were taken out there and signs were printed telling of the advantages of purchasing in Babbittville. While the studio artists were at work on the sign, they noticed two men approaching from another real estate office across the street. They watched awhile, read of Babbittville, and then finally asked:

"Say, fellows, who is this George F. Babbitt, anyway? We've been around here quite a while and we never heard of him."

LOOK OUT, CLARA!

"Wine" is the name of the new production in which Clara Bow, star of "Black Oxen," will appear. Clara won the 1922 "Fame and Fortune" contest conducted by a national magazine.

THE GATEWAY

Douglas MacLean in "The Yankee Consul" shows for the last times today at the Gateway Theatre. The picture was taken from the old Raymond Hitchcock musical comedy of that title which held popular sway on Broadway twenty years ago.

MacLean is ably assisted in his new comedy treat by Patsy Ruth Miller, a comely, fascinating young actress, whose work in other films is well known locally.

There isn't the slightest doubt that "The Yankee Consul" is exceptionally funny and MacLean keeps his audience in an uproar at the unusual twists and turns of the picture.

Starting Sunday, the famous stereopticon picture reel, "Plastigrams," will show at the Gateway Theatre for three days, in conjunction with Anita Stewart in "The Great White Way."

SHED RIVAL TEARS

Pauline Frederick and Louise Fazenda are copiously shedding tears on adjoining sets at the Warner Brothers studio. These two actresses, one a queen of comedy playing her first dramatic role, and the other whose strong forte is tragedy, are not working in the same production, but their sets are built next to each other. One is the boudoir of a wealthy, worldly New York woman with a bed draped in rose-colored taffeta. In sharp contrast the other set is a log cabin built in the woods near New York city. Both actresses are doing emotional work.

ENTER CINEMAGUNDI

"Something new under the sun" is the newly organized Cinemagundi club of Los Angeles, comprised of art directors and draughtsmen of the mation picture industry.

The name was selected by combining cinema, which is the French term for motion pictures, and salmagundi, the Italian for diversity of vocation, avocation and amusement.

Jack Okey has been named president. Other officers include: president; Leo Kuter, secretary Pridgeon Smith, treasurer. Captain Day and Ben Carre are members of the executive board.

MORE PEGGY REELS

Baby Peggy is shortly to be seen in a new series of five two-reel pictures, released through arrangements with Century. None of the series has ever been seen before.

BRIG. GEN. WM. MITCHELL

When Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, assistant chief of the U. S. air service, returns from his honeymoon trip around the world in the near future he will be made commander of McCook Field, Dayton, O., soon to be made the world's largest aerial center in the world.

GEN. MITCHELL

This is the report emanting from Dayton.

Brig. Gen. Mitchell will succeed Major L. W. McIntosh if such a move is made. The major will retire shortly to enter the preparatory school for generals, it is stated.

The appointment of Mitchell would be a popular one, it is said. He is a favorite with the flying force, an aviator of ability himself and an enthusiastic student of aviation and its progress.

He is called the proper man for the job, which will entail added responsibility when the proposed enlargement program at the field is carried out. This program contemplates the relocation of the field on a 5,000 acre tract, adjacent to the Wright field. The dedication of the new quarters would be held during the International air races, to be staged there next fall, it is said.

General Mitchell is one of the outstanding figures in the Air Service. He has 30,000 hours in the air to his credit. He has traveled about 350,000 miles in airplanes of various types.

On one of his inspections at McCook Field he went into the air with every plane at that field and some of the old buses would hardly hold together.

Following the Pulitzer Cup races at Detroit in 1922 he hopped into a Curtis racer, and stepped on the gas for 224 miles an hour establishing a world's record, one, however, which has since been topped several times by his own subordinates.

General Mitchell was born in France, but came to America at a very early age, his parents locating in Wisconsin. Along in 1898 he had the urge to join the Army and did so as a buck private. Then came the Spanish-American War. He emerged as a second lieutenant.

When the World War came along he was sent overeas in 1916 as an observer. For two years he remained there as an observer. Then America plunged in and Mitchell, being on the gornud, got the chance of his life. He was placed in direct charge of the western front. It is said he commanded the largest force of flyers ever assembled.

Until Major General Patrick began flying, General Mitchell was the only flying general in the world.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D.
Author of Diet and Health, with Key to the Caolries

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. E.—It is against the law at present for any literature on contraception (or birth control) to go through the mail, so it is impossible for me to help you. I suggest that you go to your physician and ask his advice. I am very sorry that I am unable to help you.

"Dear Doctor—I will soon be 88 and I do my reading and writing without glasses; hearing as good as ever; all my hair on my head; am never sick; I always have eight holes in my hat and have all my life been hunting for a bald-headed woman and have never found one. As I go to church I always see about two-thirds of the middle-aged men bald on the top of the head and never below the leather sweat band, and the cause must be the tight hat. God doesn't give boys and girls both a full head of hair and then have the boys grow bald before middle age and the women not, without cause.—J. B."

You are certainly to be congratulated, J. B. Did you ever use glasses? It is not unusual as old age approaches for the eyes to readjust themselves and become normal again, and oftentimes glasses can be discarded. If at this time some new line of treatment happens to be taken, the credit is given to the treatment instead of to the natural law. It is possible that your putting the eight holes in your hat for ventilation had something to do with your full head of hair, but haven't you taken good care of your scalp, too?

It is said that all things come to him who waits. Read the following letter and you will see how this applies to you.

Mrs. T.—You say you are 76, and are totally bald. I am afraid there is no possibility of your hair coming in again. I would advise you to get a wig. You must consult a skin specialist for your skin disorders.

Mrs. B.—If you had round worms, you would be passing some of them. If you have not observed any, take a specimen of your bowel movement to your physician and he will have it examined under the microscope for you, and worm eggs will be found if worms are present. If you have a tape worm, you would be passing segments of it—little, oblong pieces about one inch long and one-half inch wide.

For treatment of tape worms and round worms, strong medicines have to be taken on a fasting stomach. You must see your physician about the prescriptions for these medicines and directions for diet. The round worms and pin worms come from eggs, which you have some way gotten into your mouth—from some contaminated food, perhaps. If you have tape worm, you have gotten it by eating some infected meat, with the embryo or encysted stage in it.

Do not be worrying about these, Mrs. B. Go to your physician and have a diagnosis made. Maybe you haven't any worms at all; perhaps there is some other reason for your itching and trouble.

"Dear Doctor—I am anxious to look ten years younger. Kindly send me instructions on reducing. Will you please tell me the reason why my toe-nails have become so thick since I have come to California?—H."

I see you know exactly what to do to look ten years younger! Now, about the toe-nails—don't you know that we boast that everything grows better in California? However, it is normal for the nails to get thicker and tougher as you grow older, in any state. Are you sure your shoes are long enough and are not pressing against your nails?

Monday—Styles

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a.s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Laces Beautify Trousseau

Fashion decrees that prospective brides should include at least some frocks of lace in their collection. The three designs shown below indicate styles that carry a touch of distinction.

By MME. LISBETH

Lace grows in popular favor with the advance of the season, and the prospective bride will do well to use it freely in preparing her trousseau. The three models shown all feature it very effectively.

On the left, a dainty black chiffon dinner frock uses it to top the bodice and to band and edge the skirt. I like the little net or chiffon yoke that looks like the top of an underslip that brings the line of the round neck up higher. It solves the problem of the woman who does not care for too low a decolletage.

A narrow girdle of twisted ribbon in sapphire blue, with tiny ribbon flowers and long ends, lends a touch of color to the black frock. The chiffon rosettes on the skirt are an interesting trimming touch.

The central figure is wearing an entire lace dress. Silk shadow lace in the natural ecru is bound and girdled in velvet ribbon in orchid and pale blue. This is another bouffant model with the slightly hooped effect on the hips. The beauty of a lace dress is that it may be worn and enjoyed during the season and if lace is not used as much next year it may be cleaned and carefully put away and later—maybe years hence—it will be brought out and enjoyed.

Another lace trimmed frock is made of brown satin crepe and ecru lace is used in combination. Tiny sleeves and yoke are set on an underslip. A band of lace is placed about the hips and the skirt is edged with lace.

PROFESSIONAL BEAUTIFIERS

Some time ago a woman wrote me asking for what she called a "cosmetic" dentist. She meant a dentist who treated the teeth to make them beautiful as well as healthy. In her particular case the teeth were protruding and badly formed, so she went at length to an expensive orthodontist who began to straighten them with wires, and so on, but when she could no longer afford his work her teeth went back to their former ugliness. It is exceedingly difficult to change the shape of an adult's mouth, a badly formed jaw and teeth can be cured, or at least greatly improved in the case of a child, for here the bones are more plastic. A good orthodontist can do wonders even with a grown up, a bad one, of course, is worth very little.

It raises an interesting point. Why should a professional physician lose caste with his fellow doctors if he chooses to use his skill improving the appearance as well as the health of his patients? Why shouldn't a surgeon straighten a slightly crooked nose as well as set a broken arm? But most of them feel that anything of this sort is below their professional dignity. Only a few really clever doctors and surgeons are going in for what might be called beauty treatment, and these men (is it to make up for the loss of their precious practice?) are charging very high fees.

A good dentist, however, will straighten crooked teeth whenever it is possible, a new and more comfortable and more sightly method being by inserting tiny wedges instead of wires. No good dentist will put a gold filling where it shows, for it is always possible to put in an invisible enamel filling. No good dentist will let a tooth turn black.

Any good surgeon will cure protruding ears, if they are so bad that binding them back does no good. Any good doctor will cure cross eyes, if not, anoculist will.

Elizabeth K.—Arthritis is curable, but you should be under the care of a doctor for it, preferably one who is known to be successful with this difficulty.

Millie F.—I will be glad to mail you the formula for the eyelash tonic if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Bleach your hair on your arms with peroxide, and it will not be disfiguring.

Mintie F.—Expressed English almond oil is a fine quality of sweet almond oil, but since it is not possible to get it in some localities, a good quality of almond oil will do instead. An oil which will not make a fair substitute is one made from peanuts, or some of the cheaper grades of almond oil to which peanut oil is added to bring down its cost. If you cannot be sure of your almond oil, use a very fine quality of olive oil.

Miss J. S.—After bathing the face, always close pores by using very cold water; this and care of diet will be all that are needed to preserve the texture of your skin. At 124 pounds, height 5 feet 8 inches, you are not underweight, since you are but 20 years of age.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"What material shall I use for slip covers for my three-piece upholstered parlor suite?" asks a Column Friend who signs herself "Bride of Twenty."

The foremost interior decorators today are selling two materials for furniture slip covers: Belgian linen and a very expensive grade of cretonne which can be laundered repeatedly without fading.

The Belgian linen is what the majority of housewives use. It costs about one dollar a yard and comes 50 inches wide. It generally has tan, dark gray, green or reddish narrow stripes alternated with a satin stripe of some soft-toned color such as buff or pearl gray. About 24 yards of Belgian linen are required to make covers for a three-piece parlor "overstuffed" set consisting of a large davenport and two generous-sized armchairs.

The fade-proof figured cretonne above mentioned costs anywhere from $5 to $9 a yard. Often it is glazed. Because of its high price it is, of course, beyond the reach of most of us.

And now that I have told you what prominent interior decorators advise, I'm going to tell you what I advise. It is this: the purchase of inexpensive cretonne in a cool, green all-over leaf pattern which will not soil quickly. Of course this cheaper cretonne cannot be as successfully laundered as the nine-dollar-a-yard grade; but it can often be used for two successive summers without being washed if it is shaken and aired thoroughly after the first season. And when the day comes when it absolutely must be washed, it will still be useable even if it has faded slightly. If you decide upon buying this cheaper cretonne, be sure to choose as wide a material as possible, for by selecting the yard-wide variety you will need less than if you choose the 27-inch width.

A generation ago furniture slip-covers were bound with narrow, plain-colored braid on the seams. Today all seams are Frenched and braid is not used. This method not only makes a more closely fitting cover, but saves the expense of having to buy braid.

"Can you tell me where to buy a pattern for furniture slip covers?" is a question which frequently comes in to me. No, I cannot. Furniture is made in so many styles and shapes, and each housewife must make her own pattern by cutting old sheets into sections and pinning them on her chair or davenport. Few of us can afford to have a professional upholsterer make these covers for us.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Heart and Home

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

PUZZLING LOVE AFFAIR

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am puzzled over a love affair. I went with a very nice young man for about a year and then I moved to another town. As long as the roads were good he came to see me but now he goes with other girls and makes no effort to see me. Once in a while I go back to the other town to visit my girl friends. When he hears that I am in town he makes every effort to see me. But I have heard many remarks about his going with other girls. They have told me that the girls he goes with do not talk or act with refinement and neither does he.

When he is with me he acts like a perfect gentleman, never saying anything out of the way, nor does he talk much about love-making except to tell me that he thinks a lot of me. I have also heard that he thinks a lot of me. For example, he was playing a game of basketball and this game depended a great deal on him. I was there and he glanced at me several times. After the game he told a close friend of his that my being there helped to win the game, that seeing me gave him the wish to win.

He is not foolish about love-making, but always asks for a kiss before I leave him. Does he love me or does he like the other girls better? Please tell me what you think of this case.

TOOTSIE.

The boy probably likes you, but he certainly does not love you or he would not be contented to see you so rarely. The story about the basketball game is very pretty, but not exceptionally impressive. He would be a funny basketball player and not much good on the team if the spirit of conquest and loyalty to his side didn't fill him with the desire to win. Don't believe everything you hear. Not knowing the young man I am not in a position to place an estimate on his character. You will have to judge for yourself whether he is always the gentleman he appears to be when with you, or whether he is a different character when you are out of town, and loud and ungentlemanly. Usually it is impossible for a vulgar person to forget his vulgarity on occasion and play the gentleman.

SHE DOESN'T LOVE HIM

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 17 and I am keeping company with a boy 24 years old. It has been a week since I met him for the first time and he tells me that he loves me. He is very nice to me, but I do not love him. He says I may learn to when I know him longer.

I am good and honest. He tells me to be true to him, but that I cannot do, as I don't love him. I ride with him every day and he brings me presents. He seems to be much in love with me, but I don't love him. What advice would you give me? AMIE S.

Do not try to force love, and do not place much faith in the love he claims for you. He has not taken time to test his feelings for you. Usually a man who is so free with his love on short acquaintance is not to be depended upon.

ODDS AGAINST THEM

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man 22 years old and have been going with a young lady two years my junior. I love her dearly and am certain that she loves me as well. We are of different religions. Before she knew my nationality she made slighting remarks about the one to which I belong.

Do you think we could live happily? She never mentions anything about this, but expresses her willingness to marry.

ANXIOUS.

It always seems the odds are against happiness when people of antagonistic religions marry. Take more time to settle your problem. If you still love each other devotedly at the end of a year you will have more reason to think your love is strong enough to stand the test of religious differences.

POPULAR STYLES

NEW YORK, May 10.—The woman who likes fluttering ribbon ends and panels may have her heart's desire today. On the other hand, the woman who longs for the straight, plain, somewhat tailored costume may be equally in fashion. These two styles are seen in the fluffiest evening gowns as well as in street frocks.

LINEN IS PREFERRED

PARIS, May 10.—Let the rest of the world exclaim over fine silks. The high-class French woman insists on fine linens in her lingerie. While white is the most fashionable, there are linens in exquisite pastel shades. These are edged with narrow lace and very scantily embroidered in flower patterns.

AMBER IS FAVORED

NEW YORK, May 10.—While amber retains its popularity, this semi-precious ornament today is being combined more and more with other gems. Amber and amethyst is one combination, amber and turquoise matri' another, while amber and big gold beads is among the most effective of all.

FANCY STOCKINGS

NEW YORK, May 10.—For bridal wear there is a very simple and very beautiful silk stocking in palest silver. The clocks are lace, so fine that they are little more than a tracery.

NEW SPORT SHOE

NEW YORK, May 10.—A new sports oxford shown today is in fawn buckskin with alligator backs to the heels, alligator eyelets and alligator toes.

ENJOYED A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

"I wish to say that FOLEY PILLS worked O. K. on me in a couple of hours and the pains left me at once. I took a couple of them in the afternoon, went to bed and had a good night's sleep and have slept good ever since," writes Con Thiel, 118 E. Columbia St., Fort Wayne, Indiana. FOLEY PILLS, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, will thoroughly flush the kidneys and increase their activity.

THE AFTER HOUSE

low, they agreed to this. Turner, very weak, came up the few steps slowly, but refused my proffered help. A little later, he called me from the rail and offered me a cigar. The change in him was startling.

We took advantage of their being on deck to open the windows and air the after house. But all were securely locked and barred before they went below again. It was the first time they had all been on deck together since the night of the 11th. It was a different crowd of people that sat there, looking over the rail and speaking in monosyllables: no bridge, no glasses clinking with ice, no elaborate toilets and carefully dressed hair, no flash of jewels, no light laughter following one of poor Vail's sallies.

At ten o'clock they went below, but not until I had quietly located every member of the crew. I had the watch from eight to twelve that night, and at half after ten Mrs. Johns came on deck again. She did not speak to me, but dropped into a steamer-chair and yawned, stretching out her arms. By the light of the companion lantern, I saw that she had put on one of the loose negligees she affected for undress, and her arms were bare except for a fall of lace.

At eight bells (midnight) Burns took my place. Charlie Jones was at the wheel, and McNamara in the crow's-nest. Mrs. Johns was dozing in her chair. The yacht was making perhaps four knots, and, far behind, the small white light of the jolly-boat showed where she rode.

CHIC WRIST BAGS

PARIS, May 10.—A little wrist bag of curling ostrich tips is now an accompaniment to the afternoon costume. The foundation of the bag is moire, and the feathers, in some pastel shade, sometimes are tipped with a deeper color.

Ginger is a native of the East and West Indies.

NOVEL PAINTINGS

DENVER, May 10.—"Painted by the sun," is the way Mrs. Pansy R. Stockton, a Denver artist, describes her pictures, which are made of materials furnished by Mother Nature.

Discarding oils and water colors and doing away with the brush and palette, Mrs. Stockton has for several years been making beautiful pictures of mountain scenery by pasting twigs, bits of moss, foliage and other materials gathered in the mountains upon leaves and fashioning them into perfect replicas of photographic views.

Over the entire length of the Colorado Rockies Mrs. Stockton travels in search of materials to be worked into pictures. Leaves, twigs, the inner bark of disintegrated trees, bits of moss and natural foliage are gathered.

CONFETTI DRESSES

LONDON, May 10.—Confetti dresses are the latest fashion freak.

Dresses displayed at a recent fashion parade included black and white frocks, sewn all over with tiny colored discs made to imitate confetti.

Women are overcoming the prevailing mode of allowing no hair to appear beneath the hat by having large bunches of flowers, fruit and small birds hanging over each side of their hats, in order to soften the break between the hat and the neck.

ADD PINK CAPES

LONDON, May 10.—A cape of deep pink chiffon now is often thrown over a very thin gown, no matter what color the gown may be. The cape is a part of the costume, being fastened on the shoulders, and it serves to give a pretty flush to the wearer's skin.

NEW STYLE GOWN

LONDON, May 10.—One of the favorite gowns today has a very long, tightly fitted bodice. The skirt, however, is pleated and with every movement of the wearer it swirls in a manner both gallant and graceful.

Visitors Get Two Home Runs And Five Scores While Angels Make One

By R. C. FRANKLIN
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Los Angeles continued its losing streak yesterday and increased its total number of games lost in a row to ten, when the Oakland club took the fourth game of the series, 5 to 1 at Washington park. Three snappy double plays were put across by the Oakland infield during the afternoon, and this cut short any chances the Angels had to score outside of their lone talley.

Two home runs added excitement to the game. One was made by Louis Guisto in the sixth inning with two on and the other by Harry Krause in the seventh with the bases empty. Pitcher Meyers allowed both of them, and at the time Guisto homed he walked Arlett to get at Louis, with the disastrous result.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—The Sassy Seals bobbed into first place again yesterday by winning a ten-inning game from Bill Essick's Tigers, 3 to 2. Pat Shea and Jimmy Christensen engaged in a real battle, and an overflow crowd nearly had apoplexy at the finish.

The Seals scored first in the sixth, and Charles Deal smote the ball into the bleachers in the seventh thereby knotting the count. In the first half of the tenth the Tigers scored one more, and it looked like the ball game. But the Seals came back with two runs, clinching the exhibition and their hold on first place for at

BASEBALL QUESTION BOX

If you have some question to ask about baseball—
If you want a rule interpreted—
If you want to know anything about a play or player—
Write John B. Foster, the man who helped make the rules under which the game is played today. If you want a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Otherwise your question will be answered in this column.
Address: John B. Foster, Special Baseball Correspondent of The Evening News, 811 World Building New York.

QUESTION—When, where and by whom were triples made in major leagues?

ANSWER—That question is not quite definite enough. Triples refer to three baggers, and three baggers were made and have been made from the beginning of baseball.

QUESTION — Runner is on first base. Three balls are on the batter. Base runner starts to steal and is thrown out at the delivery of the next ball, which made the fourth ball.

ANSWER—But he wasn't out. If he started to steal at the beginning of the delivery of the ball, or even before for that matter, he was entitled to second base unless the pitcher made an effort to get him before he delivered the ball.

QUESTION — Pitched ball tipped catcher's glove and was picked up by one of the opposing team. Can base runners advance on the play or blunder?

ANSWER—No. The ball is dead when it is touched by a player of the batting side. If such were not the case the players of the team at bat would be interfering all of the time.

QUESTION—A batter was hit by the ball which he batted and hit on fair ground after he hit the ball. The ball remained in fair territory. Is he entitled to first base?

ANSWER—The batter is out as any base runner would be out who is hit by a batted ball.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

By JOHN B. FOSTER
By Special Leased Wire to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, May 10—The merrie month of May has been enlivened for the Brooklyn Nationals, so far, by the batting of Zach Wheat. He has been crowning the ball this past week at the rate of about .575. That is some stunt, even this early in the season, when players are supposed to be at their best in batting.

Incidentally, it reminds the writer of an incident of his tour of the spring training camps. Visiting the Cincinnati Reds, he sat in on a players' argument about batting in general and Babe Ruth in particular. Suddenly three veterans broke the silence at once to announce that Wheat was the hardest hitter in the National league.

Players of other teams visited in the southland coincided in this opinion. There seemed pretty general agreement that Wheat's wallops were the hardest his opponents had to stop. But even at that, there were no predictions heard that Wheat would bat better than .500, even for a week.

The better Wheat and the rest of the Brooklyns bat, the more dangerous the club becomes to the other pennant chasers, for there are pitchers on the team who can carry it along well if they only get a little support with the willow. The team does not run so much to science and strategy as it does to old-fashioned walloping and pitching. Such teams have won championships in the past.

There were wagers of even money made, when Brooklyn made its first appearance of the season at the Polo grounds, that Brooklyn would not get into first division this year. Those bets are now payable on demand. Not only has Brooklyn got into the first division, but it has done so before leaving home for its first invasion of the west.

If Reuther will give his best to the Brooklyn club, whether he feels good or bad physically, and come to the support of Vance, who is the league's best right-hander in the east, this bunch of Brooklyn old-timers will be a thorn in the side of every pennant aspirant. If the Brooklyns all get the glooms at once, they won't do so much.

Meanwhile the big question in Brooklyn is how long Wheat can keep cheering his comrades on by whaling the ball at .550 and up.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

PITTSBURGH, May 10. — The Braves defeated the Pirates here yesterday 10 to 7. In the fifth, the teams were tied at 4 all, but the Braves forged ahead with four runs. Pittsburgh used five pitchers in attepmting to stop the Boston onslaught.

SEND SCOUT OUT TO GET NEW MEN

Reichow Headed East with Intention of Getting New Players for L. A.

Fortified with a check book that has behind it the funds of William Wrigley, Jr., Oscar Reichow, business manager of the Angels, left yesterday for the east with instructions from J. H. Patrick to either get some ball players or stay there until he does.

The Angels are in the market for a right-handed pitcher, a catcher, an infielder and an outfielder. Marty Krug, boss of the Angels, who makes Glendale his home, has done the best he could with the material furnished him at the beginning of the season, but the powers that be realize now that if Los Angeles, as such, is to have a winning team, more strength must be added.

With the draft law in effect, it is probable that Reichow will have to give some major league club an option on the players here in order to get any in return. The Cubs are helpless. They have no outfielders to spare, and the deal for Parkinson and Carlson of the Phillies fell through.

Reichow stated that he intended to start in the west and visit all the major league cities until he had landed some talent that would put the Angels in the race.

Krug has received a severe razzing at the hands of the fans, but is playing bang-up ball. He has that misfortune to bobble when a miscue means runs. But he tries all the time, something that others on the Angel lineup cannot be accused of doing. Given players of equal calibre to the opposition, the Glendale wizard is able to mold together a winning team, so that Vernon will not draw all the crowd when playing at Washington Park.

TROLLEY-TEAM TO MEET WHITE SOX

Pacific Electrics Will Try to Dethrone Leaders; Caseys to Play

SUNDAY SCHEDULE
Murphy's "Knock-'em-Dead"
vs.
Glendale K. C.
12 Noon.

Pacific Electrics
vs.
Glendale White Sox
2:30 p. m.

Fast competition for the White Sox has been lacking in some instances since the close of the Triple A league, but tomorrow's game with the Pacific Electric has all the earmarks of being the best exhibition witnessed in these parts for some time.

With the sole idea of overthrowing the White Sox, who are leading the summer league, Manager Simpson of the Pacific Electric crew has signed Moudy, star hurler of the U. S. S. Mississippi, to work against Glendale. Moudy has the best record of any seagoing heaver on the Pacific Coast, and has already signed a contract to pitch for the Angels when his enlistment expires in July. Behind him will be the regular crew of ball tossers who have made things hot for all semi-pro teams in this neck of the woods.

Cruz for Sox

Opposed to him will be Cecil Cruz, ex-Vernon twirler, who is making his first start for the Sox. Cruz has a world of stuff if he is right, and if he is not right, he will last about two minutes against the P. E. sluggers. The game ought to be a good pitching duel.

Dorman will be in the Sox line up, according to Carl Sawyer, after an absence of three weeks due to small pox. Joe Hirigoyen will be back at short, and this should develop the strongest team that the Sox have ever had in the field.

Caseys At Noon

Shellenbach, Sawyer, Orsatt, Young, and Ennis will be back at their old positions, while Foss, Roberts and Hobson will fight it out for the third base job.

As a preliminary to the main game, the Glendale Caseys will tackle Gene Murphy's "Knock-em-deads." Fresh from their victory at Pasadena last Sunday when they won the K. C. championship of Southern California by defeating Hollywood, the local team figures to win over Gene Murphy's crew. This should be a whale of a game, and undoubtedly will attract a large number of early birds.

CITRUS DEFEATS DYNAMITERS, 7-3

Poor Support by Glendale Players Help Lemon Crew to Win

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

Playing rotten baseball and giving their pitcher little support, the Glendale High school ball team dropped the fifth game of the Central league schedule yesterday to the Citrus High school nine, 7-3. The game was played on the Lemon diamond. The locals made two more hits than their opponents, but committed numerous errors.

The Lemons scored one in the first. House was hit by a pitched ball, Williams walked, both advanced when Muff threw wild in an effort to nab Williams off first, House seoring on Lovell's fumble of Washburn's grass cutter to short. Another tally was added in the fourth on Rudman's pass and hits by Sheffler and King.

In the fourth inning the home team had a chance to win the game but failed. Lovell, Elliot, and Muff were all hit by pitched balls. Lovell scored on Washburn's passed ball, but Dotson fanned, and after F. Smith had been walked, Meridith Osborne also whiffed. Stumpf grounded out, King to Rudman. In the sixth hits by Elliot, Muff, Dotson and Stumpf yielded only two runs, F. Smith and Osborne fanning at the crucial moment.

Rally Falls Short

The Dynamiters made a fruitless attempt to rally in the ninth. Charlie Smith singled but Lovell hit to Piper and Elliot fanned. Muff doubled, but Louis Dotson, the Glendale clean-up man, was out, House to Rudman. In the fifth inning the winning run crossed the platter. With men on first and third Muff threw the ball into center field.

Charlie Smith had poor support but he helped his opponents by hitting four men and walking five. "Jack Keefe" Holmes did well against the Glendale stickers who had an off day. He retired ten via the strike out route. The Citrus boys made only two errors against the seven of the locals.

Dotson Good at First

Dotson played a good game at the initial sack, making fourteen putouts without an error. Ray Jean Doll covered the keystone bag fairly well making a nice underhand peg of a slow roller. Elmer Muff, Bud Elliot, and Jimmy Stumpf were then about the only Dynamiters who were able to solve Holmes' slants, each collecting two swats in four trips to the pan.

With the loss of this game the Glendale hopes of copping the seasonal sports cup go glimmering. The Covina nine has won every game played so far while the Dynamiter team has lost three and won two. Unless some miracle comes to pass there is no chance of taking first place in the baseball schedule.

Hollocher Says It On Dotted Line In Chicago; Will Play

CHICAGO, May 10.—Charley Hollocher, shortstop of the Cubs, who has been out of the line-up since early last season, when he became ill, signed a contract here, it was announced today, and will appear in this afternoon's game at his old position.

Hollocher had steadily held out this year, contending for back pay in a lump sum for last season. No announcement as to a financial settlement was made.

NET STARS PLACE IN SEMI-FINALS

Laird and Maxwell, Glendale High, Fight to Top In Dudley Cup Match

Bob Laird and Weinie Maxwell of the Glendale High school net team, showed their tennis ability yesterday in the Dudley Cup tournament at Santa Monica when they each won three matches, the winning of which puts them in the semi-finals of the play. Today Maxwell will meet the first man of Hollywood high while Bob Laird squares off with Alan Herrinton, once before the winner of the Dudley cup.

Laird started out by swamping Gemper, first man of Venice, 6—2, 6—1. He then met Weiner, Franklin first man, and defeated him in a hard driving battle. Laird dropped the first set 4—6, but managed to get the next two, 6—2, 6—2. After his setto with Weiner, he subdued Tileston, first man of Santa Monica high, 8—6, 6—4, 6—3.

Maxwell won his first match from West, Inglewood first man, with little trouble, 6—0, 6—3. He then beat Kuns of Santa Monica, 6—3, 6—0. His hardest match came in the afternoon with Gorchakoff, the Los Angeles high school star. Gorchakoff took the first nine games and it looked like finish for the Glendale net star, but Maxwell happened to lob one which Gorchakoff missed completely. Maxwell then continued his lobbing tactics and finding his opponent's weak spot took the second set 6—4. The third set he took just as easily, 6—2.

Today will be the big day for the locals. If the Hollywood first man beats Craig of Inglewood, and this is the prediction of the wise birds, Maxwell will meet him in the first semi final. Bob Laird will meet Alan Herrinton in the other semi final and is given some chance of beating him. Herrinton was ranked as the fourth best junior singles player in the country last year.

ADAMS WINS OVER MUSHY CALLAHAN

Close Decision Marks End Of Whirlwind Fight on Hollywood Card

By getting a close decision over Mushy Callahan, Johnny Adams last night won the Double A lightweight championship of the Hollywood American Legion Post tournament in the final bout of the elimination battles. It was a hummer of a fight, and at the end the judges were divided, but Lieutenant Jack Kennedy of the Pacific fleet, acting for George Blake as referee, had to give a decision, so he lifted Adams' hand.

It was Navy night at Hollywood, and the gobs were out in force, and saw several of their favorites win and lose. The main event was one of the best fights seen in the Hollywood stadium in months.

Sailor Hoffman was easy for Eddie Trembly in the semi-windup, who was awarded a technical knockout in the fourth, when the gob's sea legs gave way. Sailor Akol beat Frankie Novey; Young Gomez knocked out Sailor Marat in the fourth; Sailor Dan Toomy lost the decision to Billy Hart; Sailor Richey King got the decision over Kid Louis, and Sailor Hector won the nod over Tom Kelly.

ACTORS ORGANIZED

NEW YORK, May 10.—Viennese actors are so strongly organized they are able to draw their salaries the year around, whether they work or not, and to enjoy an annual two months' vacation, with pay, according to Dr. Arthur Rundt, a foremost European impresario, who has just arrived in this country from Vienna to study American newspaper methods.

Dr. Rundt was the first European manager of Joseph Schilkraut, famous actor, and was associated with a number of large theatres.

KANSAS VS. MORAN

NEW YORK, May 10.—Rocky Kansas, Buffalo lightweight, was today matched with Pal Moran, New Orleans, in a 15-round bout in Queensborough stadium, Long Island City, on the night of May 26. Both boxers will post forfeits of $2,500 to make 135 pounds.

The purchasing power of the farmer's dollar is 89 cents, a gain of 6 cents over the 1890 rating. In 1819 its purchasing power was $1.12.

ROMERO CAN GO HOME ANY TIME NOW, SAYS WALSH

Chilean Proved Last Night He Has Nothing But His Gloves and Trunks

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Quentin Romero-Rojas, that strange collection of sounds from South America, may return to Chile at his earliest convenience without disarranging the plans of our Mr. Rickard by the slightest.

Quentin's debut before an American public last night at Madison Square Garden was also his farewell. He was knocked kicking by one Floyd Johnson in seven non-essential and wholly superfluous rounds. Quentin, frankly speaking, was awful.

The outcome of the affair proved that boxing in some cases at least, is on the level. Quentin was on the level also. He stayed that way for the full count after one minute and forty-seven seconds of fighting in the final round.

Slow to Rise

Merely to disprove the claim that many are socked but few get up, Romero essayed to regain the perpendicular ere the timekeeper had dallied with the doleful ten, but was a bit ardy with the effort. In this he was a failure, just as he failed in everything he attempted during the evening.

They tied a pair of gloves on the Chilean before the start of the fight, but it was like giving sleeve garters to an armless man. He hadn't the slightest conception of the manly art of hit-and-avoid-the- consequences and proved it before the affair was a minute old. He ran right into a right hand punch to the jaw and was dropped for a short count in the opening round and suffered a similar indignity in the second before forsaking the vertical position for the more or less permanent ten.

And That's That

Some few wild eyed citizens didn't seem to care for Timekeeper Griffin's verdict on the count and said as much with appropriate jestures, but nothing came of it. They contended that Romero was off the floor before the last numeral was voiced but, personally, we fail to see why anyone should have become affronted. If Romero got a short count, it was all even. He gave us a long evening.

Johnson wasn't such a much, either. He was out of shape and several times it was a matter of touch and go as to whether he would last the limit himself. He stepped into a left hook—and set down. Several times thereafter, particularly in the fifth round, he was so tired that a nudge with an elbow would have finished him. Romero didn't even have that. Nothing, in fact, but real and definite courage.

As indicated above, the result was a tribute to the probity, if any, of boxing. If Romero had won he would have been built up for matches that might have carried him on to an international bout for the heavyweight championship, just as was Firpo before him. Johnson cannot be built up above the level of a caterpillar.

SPORT WISDOM

By Special Leased Wire to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, May 10.—America's Olympic swimming team is going to meet some real opposition in the Australian swimming contingent, which will consist of Charlton, Beaurepaire, Harold, Henry and Eve. Christie and Soussari also may go.

Charlton is a favorite for the 1500 meter free style swim, and a dangerous contender for the 400 meter race. Beaurepaire defeated Arne Borg, the crack Swedish swimmer in the three quarter mile in open water. He covered the 800 yard distance in 10 minutes, 51 4-5 seconds, finishing 15 yards ahead of Borg. Christie hurried Borg in the 440 yard contest.

Harold and Henry have done the 100 yard straight away in 63 3-5. Eve is a fine fancy diver and Soussari holds the breast stroke championship of Austrlia.

It looks now as though Suzanne Lenglen would not defend her title at Wimbledon, but would confine her work to the Olympics. Still, it is probable that Helen Wills, of California, will meet her. And if the Berkeley girl will develop her muscles to stand a long match, her chances of winning are good. She is phenomenally good in strokes, head work and coolness, as she demonstrated more than once.

Too many persons who discuss a larger hole in golf lose sight of the fact that a larger hole would give an added premium to the long swipers. If an opponent has any chance to catch the siege gun style of player, it is in the short game. And the larger you make the hole the more you equalize this.

Glendale To Long Beach Practical Regulations Business Now 'As Usual' Program Of Prosperity

By Gil A. Cowan

Mayor Spencer Robinson sent a message of congratulation to Long Beach on its harbor bond victory. The Morning Sun today features it on the front page. That is good advertising for Glendale.

More such little courtesies extended by officials would win friends for this city. It is said that official action sometimes makes or breaks a town.

Therefore, we should not be too hidebound, perhaps, in our daily doings. If there is a stranger in our midst treat him as a guest.

But we do need a hotel in which to house our guests and if no one else starts one—

Well, the hotel line isn't our business, yet more than one uninitiated to its intricacies have made great successes.

Somebody try it, please.

Practical regulations have replaced numerous asinine restrictions inflicted on Southern California by the authorities fighting the foot and mouth disease.

The writer believes he was among the first to broach the subject to Dr. U. G. Houck, federal chief in charge; Director G. H. Hecke of the state department of agriculture, and later put the proposition up to Governor Friend W. Richardson that it was an economic mistake to so ban motor travel, that all business was ruined when by proper precautions the losses could be held to the few owners of livestock who are repaid by the government, whereas business men are not.

Of course, the idea did not appeal directly to Dr. Houck. It did to Mr. Hecke. And Governor Richardson used all his power to bring about the modification of the quarantine bans. And now it is pleasing to see that Dr. Houck has realized the wisdom of the situation and business will go on "as usual" in California.

After the storm—the sunshine. Southern California has weathered well a little gale caused by the foot and mouth disease and now it's all over. In the words of the song, "It ain't goin' to rain no mo', no mo'."

Instead, the upward tide of prosperity is heading straight for us and almost everyone is in the position of "not being dressed up for the occasion."

First of all, the film producers announced a greater program of activity than has been known since 1919. That will redound to Glendale's benefit. Then the resorts in the mountains were thrown open yesterday, including the Verdugo hills, Mount Lowe and other Southern California retreats, the only restriction being that campers from infected areas being requested to undergo fumigation.

Second consideration of importance in prosperity is the tourist contingent, perhaps, and when it is announced that 3000 will arrive in one day there is cause for rejoicing on the part of property owners. Also, there is a national club convention and several other meetings this year, particularly in Pasadena, which will bring thousands of people to the southland for a week or more. Already delegates are arriving for events in June and enjoying the beautiful weather this May.

A third element in continued prosperity is the successful passage of approximately $50,000,000 in bonds by the cities and Los Angeles county. That sum will provide 30,000 artisans with work for a year and directly and indirectly support upwards of 300,000 people.

With the Greater Los Angeles association, the All Year Round club and the Glendale Chamber of Commerce advertising committee all combining efforts which will benefit this city, there should be no reason why this city should not step right out and lead the parade!

All right now, let's go!

SENATOR PRESSES CHARGE OF GRAFT

Oddie Will Take Matter of Veterans' Bureau Direct To President

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Senator Tasker L. Oddie, Republican of Nevada, will make a personal presentation to President Coolidge of his charges that the United States Veterans' bureau is controlled by a "ring" of subordinate officials, it was learned today.

When Oddie's charges were made on the floor of the Senate, it was indicated at the White House that no action would be taken because of their general nature and because it was understood they were based largely upon the complaints of disgruntled employes.

Senator Oddie is determined to get action, however, and is demanding a complete re-organization of the bureau's personnel.

opposition manifested, the commission did not change the classification of the property, so Mr. Harris' project will have to be abandoned for the time being, at least.

A petition asking that a certain strip of property on Chester street between Doran and Fairmont be removed from the first class residential district, allowing only one house and one family on a lot, to a classification permitting the erection of duplexes and flats, was denied. The commissioners decided unanimously to recommend that Cerritos avenue, between Glendale avenue and Gardena avenue be widened to the uniform width of sixty-six feet, allowing fifty feet between curbs. The bonus is certain to be vetoed and almost as certainly will be passed over his veto. What the effect on his "soldier vote" will be is problematical. The tax bill probably will meet a veto—and it is not likely sufficient votes can be found to pass it over a veto.

On the immigration bill, opinion is divided as to what will be the president's action. He has sustained a severe defeat at the hands of Congress. Administration spokesmen said that if the president were defeated on the Japanese exclusion issue he would veto the whole bill.

Mr. Coolidge has been advised that if he vetoed the measure it would cost him several electoral votes west of the Rockies. His defeat on exclusion was accomplished by the Pacific coast members, who voted solidly against him.

PLAN HORSEBACK TRIPS IN HILLS

Oakmont Stables to Sponsor Jaunts to Places Off Beaten Paths

Owing to the fact that forest trails are better this season than ever before, Proprietor J. R. Thorpe of the Oakmont Riding academy of Ocean View boulevard and Waltona drive, has completed arrangements for taking horseback parties through the mountains on three and five-day trips, in charge of J. J. Gethin, formerly proprietor of the Beverly Hills Riding school.

Mr. Thorpe has been advised by the chief forest ranger of the district that weather conditions this spring, plus the quarantine restrictions, keeping travel out of the hills, have allowed the rangers to give practically all their time to the trails, which are consequently in fine shape.

Over fifty reservations for these three and five-day horseback trips have already been made, Mr. Thorpe states. In explanation of the trips, he points out that parties leaving for the mountains in this manner will travel through the most beautiful and unusual places, spots positively inaccessible to motor tourists and practically inaccessible afoot.

Enjoy Camp Life

Arrangements have been made to stop at a different mountain resort each night, states Mr. Thorpe, where all the various diversion of camp life will be enjoyed to the full. Yellowstone, Yosemite and other places of like character keep hundreds of horses just for such tours, he points out, while here around Glendale is one of the most beautiful wooded countries in the entire state, an ideal vacation playground right at hand.

J. R. Thorpe, proprietor of the Oakmont Riding academy, is the first horseman in Southern California to put over such a program on a large scale and already the news of it is traveling far and fast. Says Mr. Thorpe:

"Very few people have any idea of the beauties that nature has concealed in the hills and mountains within a fifty-mile radius of Glendale. With the lifting of the quarantine today, mountain travel and fishing will be resumed and the mountain resorts are looking for a record season.

NEW TAX BILL IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Passes Senate by Vote of 69 to 15; President to Veto, Is Belief

$110,000,000 in revenues. A number of Republicans including Senators Moses of New Hampshire, and Brandegee of Connecticut, served notice they would vote against the measure when it comes back from conferencs "unless it is radically changed."

Democrats Happy

The Democrats and insurgent progressives, however, were jubilant. They contended the bill would relieve the laboring and small business man "from the burden of taxation," and transfer it to millionaires and great corporations.

The bill was supported by thirty Republicans, including the insurgent bloc, thirty-seven Democrats and two Farmer-Laborites.

Those opposing the bill were Senators Cameron of Arizona, Colt of Rhode Island, Cummins of Iowa, Edge of New Jersey, Fess of Ohio, Lodge of Massachusetts, McKinley of Illinois, Moses of New Hampshire, Norbeck of South Dakota, Pepper of Pennsylvania, Phipps of Colorado, Reed of Pennsylvania, Wadsworth of New York, Watson of Indiana and Ball of Delaware. All were administration senators except Norbeck, who bolted the insurgents.

A flat exemption of $1000 for single persons and $2500 for a married couple was adopted without a record vote.

An amendment by Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri was adopted, prohibiting, in computing net income, any deduction of interest on indebtedness incurred or continued for the purpose of evading tax payments.

Both House and Senate bills were agreed upon the following important provisions.

First—A 25 per cent flat reduction on all income taxes for 1923, payable during the present year.

Second—A minimum normal income tax of 2 per cent on incomes up to $4000, only one-half the present tax, and a maximum normal tax of 6 per cent beginning on incomes of $8000.

Third—An exemption of $10,000 on income surtaxes.

Fourth—The taxing of gifts and inheritances, corporations, with an indirect tax on stock dividends.

FEAR PROVISION OF CORPORATIONS

time. This means a commission to the lenders together with interest rates that would compete with other investment offerings and it is acknowledged that some private businesses must pay more for their money in the open market frequently than others, depending upon the character of the business and its appeal to the public as a safe investment. The cheapest way to borrow money has been for corporations to accumulate a surplus and use their own funds for expansion when needed. The proposed tax law would deprive them of that opportunity.

Escape Taxation

The theory of the proponents of the measure is that a large sum of money annually escapes taxation because it is not distributed in the form of dividends. Senator Jones of New Mexico contends that for seven years, from 1916 to 1922 inclusive, the total incomes of corporations upon which no surtax was paid amounted to $27,000,000,000. Only $18,000,000,000 out of a total of $45,000,000,000 earned in that period was distributed in dividends.

Senator Smoot, however, does not think that is necessarily abnormal or done with an idea of escaping taxation, for he cites figures from 1910 to 1916, before the high surtaxes were in effect, the corporations averaged 53½ per cent of their profits in distributed dividends while from 1917 to 1922, about 140 of the largest industrial corporations of the country averaged 65 per cent of their profits in dividends distributed. He points out that a treasury document shows that for all corporations during the year 1922, the distribution of profits amounted to an average of 65 per cent of earnings. On that account, he declares, the industrial companies which would be penalized by the new law are the very ones who are innocent of the wrongs which the Senate is trying to correct.

Graduated Tax

The provision already incorporated in the bill is a graduated tax. Thus if 30 per cent of the earnings of a corporation are not distributed, there will be imposed a 5 per cent tax on the undistributed 30 per cent. This is entirely aside from the 9 per cent on all net income which is distributed. The tax runs upward to a maxmum of 40 per cent tax if the undistributed income of a corporation is more than 58 per cent of what is know as "the surtax net income."

The treasury department is vigorously opposed to all this on the ground that the present revenue law contains a sufficient safeguard against this form of tax evasion. The secretary of the treasury is empowered to impose a penalty whenever he discovers that corporations are holding in their possession more funds than they actually need for their business. This means that the burden of proof is always on the corporations and the power of imposing a penalty is not mandatory but discretionary.

The matter of school bonds was also endorsed at this meeting and of the Chamber of Commerce secretary and a committee of three were appointed to put over a campaign in the Eagle Rock district. Those in charge of this work are Donnell G. Montgomery, secretary; C. W. Young, R. L. Woodhouse and C. B. Goodale.

A representative group of workers will be effected from all organizations in this district so that campaigners will be on duty in each voting precinct to urge action from all those eligible to vote on June 3. They will also be asked to assist in taking people to and from the polls. The definite aim is to make Eagle Rock 100 per cent for the school bonds, a record that will stand out among all the other sections. The Chamber of Commerce has been largley responsible for the worthwhile allotment for Eagle Rock, and has pledged support to the Board of Education, so it is now in the hands of local residents to show appreciation and interest in the work. One of the first steps in the organization is the district meeting of section 13, of the P.-T. A. federation on next Tuesday at Franklin high school.

The Chamber of Commerce also put a definite aim on its calendar to assist the fire department in securing additional fire hydrants for Eagle Rock.

SELL OLD PAPER TO BUY FLOWERS

School Children Collecting Magazines to Raise Required Funds

EAGLE ROCK, May 10.—The children have a desire to find out how many tons of old papers and magazines there are in the community, with a view to corraling these non-producers and putting them to work. In other words, they want to sell all the old papers and magazines they can get their hands on, to swell a special fund for purchasing shrubs and flowers to adorn the Eagle Rock school grounds.

The children request those who have old papers and magazines to phone Garfield 2424, which is the Central school number, and someone will call and take them away.

The room which procures the largest amount of papers and magazines by the end of the second week will be given all of the papers and magazines not desired by the school library as a bonus. The final prize in the contest will be a delightful picnic given the winning room.

'BLINKER' LIGHTS WARN MOTORISTS

BURBANK, May 10.—"Blinker" lights warning motorists have been placed at the intersection of Verdugo and Olive avenues; Main and Olive; Verdugo and Main; Main and Central; Pioneer and Central; Pass and Olive. There will be a button placed at the intersection of Central and San Fernando and the police red light is to be changed to the intersection of Olive and San Fernando.

Fourth street is to have a three-light cluster and San Fernando boulevard from the eastern city limits to Turkey Crossing is to have the two-light cluster of the variety now at the theatre building corner at Angeleno.

Outlines Plans

At least this is the program represented by Superintendent French, of the public utilities department. These plans, Mr. French declared, are based on suggestions from those at the head of the movement for the ornamental lighting system on these two important thoroughfares.

The resolution of intention for creating ornamental lighting districts out of these two streets was passed at the last meeting of the City Trustees, which means that the work of installing the new system will be in progress before many days.

BRINGS SUIT TO GUARD BIG TREE

Protest Against Removal of Giant Eucalyptus Is Filed by Woman

BURBANK, May 10.—The old cry "Woodman, spare that tree!" resounds here to the tune of an injunction suit brought by Mrs. Maude Silver, to restrain certain parties from cutting down "The Sentinel," the big eucalyptus tree on South Verdugo avenue, just beyond the intersection with Olive avenue.

Some time ago, when the life of the tree was threatened by reason of the paving done on that street, Mrs. Silver secured an injunction to prevent the paving contractors and City Trustees from cutting down the tree; but when it seemed that the danger to the life of the tree was gone, the suit was withdrawn. Now suddenly, it appears that some person or persons are again at work to get the tree out, and a second injunction suit has been brought by Mrs. Silver.

Tree Loves Protest

The tree stands five feet and ten inches beyond the edge of the paving, and those who love it and love all trees, declare there is no adequate reason for its removal.

Mrs. Silver says she will be glad to put a red light on the tree and keep it burnng all night. In fact she is so anxious about the tree, she says she will take the matter to the highest court rather than have the tree destroyed. This great eucalyptus is about six feet in diameter and the third largest of its kind in California, it is said. In addition, it is very symmetrical, which is not characteristic of eucalyptus trees.

GRAND OPERA TO SERVE GLENDALE

Mrs. Kinney to Represent Association Here; Give Plans for Season

In providing Los Angeles with a season of grand opera of the finest type, the Los Angeles Grand Opera association is also serving Glendale, widely known as a city of lovers of good music.

Mrs. E. W. Kinney of 123 West Elk avenue is representing the association in Glendale, and asks that all Glendalians interested in attending any or all of the operas to be given from October 6 to 13 in the Philharmonic auditorium in Los Angeles, call her at Glendale 347 before June 1.

In announcing plans for the opera season Merle Armitage, impresario, who spoke last night at the meeting of the Glendale Music club, says: "No city is greater than the aspiration and the spirit of its citizens. A group of Los Angeles citizens, interested in the cultural development of their city, have formed the Los Angeles Grand Opera association, a civic enterprise, that also includes Glendale.

Must Keep Pace

"Cognizant that art, music and the things of the spirit must keep pace with the material progress of the day, the manifest advantages of Los Angeles having its own annual season of Grand Opera performances seem obvious.

"To finance this season, script books to the total valuation of $35,000 must be subscribed by June 1. Response by June 1 decides whether or not this season can be given.

"The repertoire for the proposed season of five performances will be selected from the following, "Andrea Chenier," "La Tosca," "La Boheme," "Traviata," "Fedora," "Mme. Butterfly," "Manon," "Lucia," "Rigoletto," "Martha," "Romeo and Juliet."

CHORUS OF SIXTY CHILDREN HEARD

Little Tots Are Featured In Rainbow Song at First Baptist Church

A chorus of sixty boys and girls sang patriotic songs last night at the evangelistic meeting at the First Baptist church. The most spectacular song of their program was entitled, "There's a Rainbow in the Cloud for You," when a large rainbow appeared and paper banners and streamers were waved by the children.

The brightness and cheer in life was typified as they sang again and at one end of the chorus the sun rose burning bright, as at the other the moon rose to shed its silver light. Then suddenly from every child rose a multitude of stars.

Misses Amy Lee Stockton and Miss Rita Gould, evangelists, were in charge of the meeting.

After the choral songs Miss Stockton preached on "Seek Ye the Lord While He May be Found."

On Sunday special Mothers' Day meetings will be held. At night Miss Stockton will preach on "The Great White Throne."

Cecil B. De Mille Is Vice-President of Valley Association Now

LANKERSHIM, May 10.—The Greater San Fernando Valley Improvement association, which recently came into being at a meeting here of representatives from all parts of the valley, boasts Cecil B. De Mille, great director, as one of its vice-presidents. A. Z. Taft, Jr., is president. W. P. Whitsett and A. Y. Brand are also vice-presidents.

The executive committee is made up of Watt Moreland and Earl L. White, of the Burbank district; George B. Karr and L. T. Rowley, of the Glendale district; Bert Holloway, Leo Lesperance and W. P. Whitsett, of the Van Nuys district; C. C. Bowerman, of Lankershim; Alex Jeffrey of Reseda; Earl Goodall of Owensmouth; Glenn Allard of Zelzah; W. J. Millan of San Fernando; Jack Plummer of Mission Acres; F. C. Hagerman of Chatsworth, and F. P. Newport, H. H. Merrick, S. H. Woodruff, A. L. Shoenburn, A. Z. Taft, Jr., Alfred Brant, George E. Platt, Martin Neuner, R. L. Hadley, Cecil B. De Mille, F. W. Blanchard and W. D. Longyear, from the valley in general.

The first thing to which the newly formed association will turn its attention will be the rapid completion of Riverside and Victory boulevards, arteries which are looked upon as solving the immediate needs of the valley in the way of supplemental highways in and out of the valley. When these two new highways have reached the status of realities the Greater San Fernando Valley Improvement association will turn its attention to other matters, of which a satisfactory sewer system for the valley is believed to be one of the most important.

Girl Scouts of Troop 3 entertained a good-sized audience last night in Harvard High school auditorium with the play, "Taming of Horrors," and also realized a gratifying sum to be divided between the fund for furnishing the Girl Scouts' bungalow on the Harvard campus, and the fund for assisting in financing the troop summer camping trip.

Richardson D. White, Owen C. Emery, T. D. Watson, Bert Richardson and W. H. Richards were elected to the executive committee of the local American Legion post at the regular meeting last night. Regelin, W. A. McCormack and E. E. McWain serve on the committee.

Only a short business meeting was held. Plans for participation in the exercises on Memorial day were discussed.

FOURTH OF JULY PICNIC PLANNED

Verdugo City Association of Commerce Discusses Civic Projects

VERDUGO CITY, May 10.—Verdugo City Association of Commerce held its weekly meeting last night, when a big Fourth of July picnic was planned. Important civic matters came up for discussion and were disposed of in businesslike manner.

The matter of the La Canada Water company owning the lots next to the Crescenta Mutual company's plant, where they intend sinking a well for water users in the La Canada district was discussed, and steps will be taken to enter a protest.

Extension of bus lines in the valley was taken up. A letter from Fred Deal of Glendale on an exchange name for the district asked for co-operation on this question. Verdugo City Association of Commerce has drafted a standard for highways and parkings on the local roads which they desire the county road supervisors to adopt, to take care of increase in traffic. A letter which has been sent to the Crescenta Mutual Water company regarding setting pipes and giving service in streets not accepted by the county was read.

H. N. Fowler, as president, had also drafted a letter to be sent to the Mutual Water company on the matter of voting as a mutual company.

Plan Car Stops

A letter from the Glendale & Montrose railroad officials on the matter of proper stops was read. Mr. Hatch of the Glendale & Montrose assures absolute co-operation on this matter. Mr. Rieger, as a committee of one, will confer with Mr. Hatch.

George Hansen, as chairman of the May Day party committee on entertainment, thanked the following for the assistance given him in arrangements, etc. Mr. and Mrs. F. Reiger, Mr. and Mrs. G. Fleming, Dr. Karr, "Daddy" Bowlus, Mr. Farris, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Hobensack, Miss Ruth Pitts, "Singing Jim," Billy Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Fowler and Eileen Karr.

Mr. Fowler read his itemized statement on what a proper fire equipment should cost, also stating that the county owns 200 feet on Orangedale and Honolulu avenues.

Dr. E. L. Wemple and Embert Brown were heard from on the telephone question, passing the telephone form around for signatures on the exchange matter. Mr. Brown gave a short talk at the request of President Fowler, in which he thanked the latter for his invitation to visit the association in session, said he would work hard on the sidewalks on Los Angeles avenue, and would back the association in everything for the betterment of the valley.

Express Opinion

Mrs. Mary B. Darrow was asked her opinion of the Verdugo City Association of Commerce, which she, also, had been invited to attend, and replied: "You gentlemen seem to have the good of the valley at heart, and put over your business in a businesslike manner."

The big Fourth of July picnic came in for discussion, and a committee consisting of the following men was formed immediately: Standing committee, Messrs. G. Scully Farris, H. Bozarth, F. Reiger, "Daddy" Bowlus, H. Sears, H. Hodensacker, and chairman, George Hansen. Executive committee: George Hansen, F. Reiger and H. Sears. Arrangements will be under way at once to see about procuring the Whiting-Mead park for the affair. It will be a basket picnic for the entire valley.

T. C. Cobb, as secretary of the association, read all the communications, while H. Sears, as secretary, reported $138 as the May Day dance proceeds, with expenditures to date over $68. Pictures taken at the party were passed around for inspection and will go into the album of history Mr. Fowler is preparing.

Mrs. E. Perkins' brick building is going up very rapidly, and will be an addition to the community when completed.

GIRL SCOUTS TO STAGE CARNIVAL

Many Feature Attractions Planned for Event to Be Given May 10

With four big headliners direct from the Orpheum circuit as leading features of the night program, patronage of numerous celebrities from the movie and business world, and a morning parade of blue ribbon horses, the Spring carnival to be staged Saturday, May 17, by Troop 2, Glendale Girl Scouts, Mrs. H. B. Lockwood, captain, at the Harvard street High school gymnasium, promises to give Glendale people an entertainment both up to date and highly entertaining.

The program will take place at 8 o'clock in the High school auditorium. The parade is scheduled for the morning at 10 o'clock, and the concessions in the gymnasium will be open to the visiting public from 6:20 to 12 at night.

The horses which appear in the parade have been generously donated by the Elysian Park Riding Academy, and have just been returned from the horse show at the Biltmore.

CAMPAIGN HELPS FORMER INVALIDS

Ex-Tuberculars Are Aided In Fight for Health And Self Support

TUJUNGA, May 10.—One of the most constructive steps in the campaign of the California Tuberculosis association to rehabilitate convalescents has been taken in the establishment here of an occupational therapy department, known as the Dolly Varden shop. This shop will employ people who are emerging from the class of invalids, who are still unable to compete on an eight-hour basis with people in full health.

Ten persons are at present employed on part time, according to their strength, manufacturing toy furniture. Contracts are in force with large eastern firms for the sale of the articles. The plan is to pay the workers on a percentage basis from the net returns on sales.

Protect Customers

Only arrested or non-contagious cases are accepted for training in the work, which will later embrace other branches of handicraft. Every precaution is taken by the association to prevent patients with active symptoms from engaging in any work of this kind, thereby protecting the customers who buy their products. The week is broken by a holiday on Wednesday, which gives the workers a chance to rest during the long stretch from Monday to Saturday.

The ideal back of the Dolly Varden shop is the Roycroft colony in East Aurora, N. Y., which was established by the late Elbert Hubbard. This colony is famous over the world for the work in leather, bookbinding, pottery and jewelry. The backers of the Dolly Varden shop hope to establish a reputation for their workers in similar lines of endeavor as the colony grows and becomes more efficient.

Data for State

The principal object of the experiment is to furnish data that will help the state of California assume the responsibility of convalescent care as other states have done. The undertaking is not confined to local conditions, but is expected to affect conditions all over the United States, and is being worked out on the "great oaks from little acorns grow" theory. People now travel thousands of miles to visit the Roycroft shops, and the founders of Dolly Varden hope to establish a reputation that will bring people to their shop to see their products and how they are made.

MERCHANTS LAUD C. OF C. POLICIES

Organization Gives Pledge Of Support In Letter to Commerce Body

The following letter from the Glendale Merchants' association, endorsing the work done by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce during the past year, has brought keen gratification to the directors of the latter organization.

Mr. E. P. Sanders, Secy.,
Glendale Chamber of Commerce,
Glendale, Cal.

Dear Sir—At the regular meeting of the Glendale Merchants' association held Monday, May 5th, it was resolved that the Glendale Merchants association go on record as commending and approving the policies and activities that have been followed by your Chamber of Commerce during the past year.

The Glendale Merchants' association recognized that much of the growth of our beautiful city both in population and building and many of our great improvements such as the sewer system, the new Southern Pacific depot, the new high school, and the recent advertising fund which has been raised, owe much of their success to the work of the Chamber of Comerce through its various committees.

We wish at this time to pledge our hearty support and co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce in the work it has to do in the future.

Yours very truly,
Glendale Merchants' Association.

FISHERMEN COOK AND SERVE CATCH

Members of Bible Class at Methodist Church Are Hosts at Banquet

Fish, temptingly cooked, was served last night at the First Methodist church to a company of 200, following the fishing party Thursday of the Men's Bible class at Redondo beach.

It is reported that after distributing a liberal quantity to members of the class who did not make the trip, there were more than 200 pounds left for the dinner menu.

Special guests were the women of the Sisterhood class.

The dinner was entirely prepared and served by the fishermen themselves, and they were complimented on their skill both as fishermen and cooks.

Form Fishing Club

Later in the evening an informal social hour was featured by amusing stunts. Dr. Rasmus gave an interesting and humorous talk on the subject of fishing and the sort of stories about the big fish that got away. However, the fishermen were prepared with substantial evidence in the form of photographs, proving that they really caught the fish.

So successful was the fishing trip that a permanent fishermen's club has been formed with T. A. Wright as president and general manager. It is proposed to have a fish dinner every month.

BOYS' STRIKE LOOMS

CHRISTIANIA, May 10.—The world's first strike of errand boys is threatened in this city.

The boys have already formed themselves into a union. Printed circulars have been issued by their "committee" and freely distributed throughout the city airing their grievances and urging non-strikers to abstain from any work that might be of a strike-breaking character.

Holidays with full pay are demanded, and among other features of this Gilbertian situation is a proposed parade of the errand boys, accompanied by a boys' band, through the principal streets of the city.

Tractors of any description cannot be run on highways of Holland unless a special permit is issued, and permits are given only for those having smooth iron tires and good working springs.

CHURCH SOCIETY BAZAAR SUCCESS

Generous Supply of Supper Provided for Guests By Ladies' Aid

MONTROSE, May 10.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Montrose Community church is to b complimented on the splendid bazaar and supper given last night in the church. There was one fault found with the meal and that was—too much.

A delicious dish of fluffy white potatoes surrounded by tender roast beef and rich brown gravy—was flanked by a dish of creamed peas and a most appetizing salad. Olives, jellies, pickles and jams filled in the empty places, while the most delicious, flaky, white, hot, home-made biscuits gladdened the eye and the inner man. To top off this wonderful meal was a piece of real home-made apple pie and cheese and, of course, coffee. Then there was an ice cream and cake booth, but, sad to say, this was rather neglected right after the heavy dinner.

Plenty of Aprons

An apron booth had every kind of apron to suit milady while a candy booth had home-made candies at a penny a square. A grab bag was popular with the kiddies, while mother found many household needs at a very low price at the country store table.

There were prettily decorated arches of roses and ferns over each booth.

Music beguiled one during the entire evening with Mrs. Rosencrans at the piano. Mesdames Foy, J. Brown and H. Wooley, assisted by many other matrons and young women of the church family, served the wholesome meal.

On Sunday R. R. Collins will sing special music arranged for the day. Mrs. Ida Templeton will accompany him.

GLENDALIANS TO VISIT BACK EAST

Reduction of Fares Proves Attraction to Patrons Of Union Pacific

Over fifty Glendale people have already made reservations for the first eastbound Los Angeles Limited leaving at the reduced fare rate which goes into effect May 22, reports C. A. Redmond, city passenger agent for the Union Pacific lines, from his office at 120 South Brand boulevard. These tickets are all round trips, he states.

A number of Glendalians are bound on visits "back home," some are availing themselves of this opportunity to cut the expenses of a business trip, while others are going on across the Atlantic when they arrive in New York, according to Mr. Redmond.

In Six Sections

So great has been the demand on the Union Pacific for reservations on the Los Angeles Limited on May 22, he states, that five extra sections of eight cars each are already sold out and a sixth is being planned.

"Not only will all these Glendalians come back, using their round trip tickets," says Mr. Redmond, "but many will bring back friends and relatives with them."

FORMER RESIDENT RETURNS TO CITY

F. L. Muhleman, One Time Official, Came Here In 1906 From Kentucky

Recalling Glendale of 1906 as a village of 1200 inhabitants, Frank L. Muhleman, one time Glendale's city attorney, city trustee and chairman of the trustees, has returned with his family to reside at 227 North Louise street. The Muhlemans moved from Glendale three and a half years ago to their ranch home near San Fernando. During this time Mr. Muhleman has established a law practice in Los Angeles.

Speaking of their coming to Glendale, he says: "We came to Glendale in 1906 from Kentucky. Then the fastest growing city in America had only 1200 inhabitants. In 1910 and 1911 I served as city attorney, and in 1916 was elected city trustee. And in the year 1920 I served as chairman of the Board of Trustees.

"Mrs. Muhleman and I have watched with amazement the growth of the city and are mighty happy to bring our family back here to live."

HUNT SHIP'S GOLD

LONDON, May 10.—Margaret Naylor, first woman deep-sea diver, is renewing attempts at Tobermory, off the west coast of Scotland, to salvage the Spanish treasure ship "Admiral of Florence," sunk there in November, 1588.

Reputed to have 30,000,000 golden "pieces of eight" aboard, the sunken galleon has hitherto defied every attempt at salvage. In 1913, however, Colonel Foss succeeded in recovering from her pewter dishes, coins, cannon balls and other relics. But he met with an accident and has trained Miss Naylor to take over his work.

Brazil has granted governmental permission to erect four new broadcasting stations.

PIANIST PROVES ARTISTIC POWER

Homer Simmons Wins Praise From Music Lovers at Burbank Concert

Not only Burbank music lovers but many visitors from nearby cities gathered last night to hear the concert given by Homer Simmons, pianist, assisted by Gertrude Burtscher, child impersonator, in the Edison school. The affair was given under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal church choir of Burbank, in the observance of National Music week.

Homer Simmons is the brother of Rev. H. O. Simmons of 320 North Olive street, pastor of the Methodist church. Although Mr. Simmons is only 23 years of age, he demonstrated ability as an artist pianist. His tones are of a clear and sympathetic quality and his technic appears destined to bring him many laurels.

Divide Program

Mr. Simmons divided his program into three groups, the first group including four difficult Chopin numbers. At the close of each group Gertrude Burtscher entertained in a delightfully pleasing manner with groups of childish readings. In Mrs. Burtscher's first group she impersonated the tiny girl and in the second group the small boy from 4 to 14 years of age. In the last group her impersonation of a boy of 14 years of age reading his own "Essay on Geese" was particularly clever.

Mr. Simmons, whose home is in Inglewood, leaves on Tuesday for New York, where he will appear in concert. This fall he will confer with Paderewski relative to a trip to Europe with that artist for a term of study.

Varied Selections

The program presented included:

Polonaise, A Major (Chopin); "Berceuse" (Chopin); "Butterfly Study" (Chopin); Four Preludes played without pause (Chopin); piano solos by Mr. Simmons.

"When Folks Come t' Our House" (Cooke); "When Company Comes," "At the Concert," "The Shave Store," readings by Mrs. Burtscher.

"Prelude, G Minor" (Rachmaninoff); "Rhapsody, F Sharp Minor" (Dohnany); "Fireflies" (Hinton); "Etude" (lament), (Scriabine), piano solos by Mr. Simmons.

"The Sin of the Coppenter Man" (Cooke); "The Judgment Day" (Cooke); "A Besetting Sin" (Cooke); "Essay on Geese" (Unknown), readings by Mrs. Burtscher.

"Spinning Song" (Raff); "In the Mountains" (Greig); "Nottuno" (Greig); "Carnival" (Greig; piano solos by Mr. Simmons.

The Chickering piano used by Mr. Simmons was loaned through the courtesy of the Southern California Music company. The flowers and stage setting was furnished by Carroll and Norwood and the Burbank Nursery.

The following musicians and teachers of Burbank helped to make the evening's program possible financially:

Edith Ford Pla, Vern Isom, Zefer Algots Sparrows, Frank Stillwell Moore, Mrs. R. A. Powell, Dr. V. P. Ervin, Mrs. John Porter Hart, John R. Hoist, Eloise Horton Kirkpatrick, Gladys Shelton Fischer, Mrs. Adelaide S. Redmon, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Padel, Burbank Choral club, Mrs. Grace Lovejoy, Miss Vera M. Morrow.

DE VALERA SWINGS AXE

DUBLIN, May 10.—Like the exiled Kaiser, Eamonn de Valera, erstwhile president of the Irish republic, has taken up wood chopping as a pastime, according to reports trickling out of Arbor Hill prison, where De Valera is interned.

De Valera has recently been visited by friends, who found him well, eating and sleeping normally and dividing his time for exercise between wood-chopping and handball. He is in cell No. 113, but has no superstitious objections to it.

PAINTERS' STRIKE OVER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 10.—The settlement of the painters' strike, which had been in progress seven weeks, is expected to result in an increase of spring painting activity here. The painters struck for an increase of from $8 to $12 a day and compromised on a daily wage of $10.40.

STRAW HAT DATES DIFFER IN SPOTS

Men in Some States Wearing Them Now, Others Will Start on May 15

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, May 10. — Male New York and Boston will blossom forth in their new straw lids May 15. Philadelphia and Baltimore placed the official seasonal sanction on the straw head covering last Saturday, although the weather has scarcely had a chance as yet to countersign the edict. St. Louis will flock to the hatters next Saturday, and Chicago and Detroit men will follow suit sometime between May 15 and 25. However, it is the thermometer and the sun that really fire the starting gun for the straw hat year, and in the south the season is already well under way.

Manufacturers and dealers unite in predicting an excellent season, although they say the volume of trade probably will show little gain over 1923. Business done already in the south is supporting their contentions. But it is going to be a different kind of a trade than in the past. For retailers have decided to order small lots frequently; they can do business in much smaller quarters, save rent, leave more money free and avoid being stuck with styles which are unpopular. Also that policy has minimized the necessity of cutting prices in midseason and arranging bargain sales in order to clear their shelves.

Repeat Orders

Consequently, the reorder will be as much a factor in the trade in 1924 as the original order. Repeat orders already are coming in from New Orleans and Texas points.

"As to styles," one leading maker of Baltimore, the center of the manufacturing end of the straw hat industry, said today, "it would be difficult to determine any outstanding feature this year. The trade has come to demand such a wide variety that we supply all types and leave the choice to the retail dealer who can sound out the tastes of his own clientele.

"The outstanding feature, in my opinion, is the trend toward a wider brim. I predict we will slowly come back to the extremely wide brim of a few years ago, but the higher crown will replace the extremely low crown of those days. The demand has been for more comfort and ease, which was not produced by the very low crown.

Improve Hats

"The elimination of discomfort from the hard straw hat has been one of the main problems for the manufacturer. This has been solved in large part by higher crowns, properly shaped to fit the curve of the head and more comfortable leather sweat bands which have softened the strain on the forehead."

Manufacturers agree that one of the features of the 1924 seasons is the demand for colored bands. This demand, however, does not run to vivid colors, but finds expression in stripes of gray and black, sombre tans and a few greens of dark hue.

Geography seems to govern the popularity of the various braids. In the south and southwest, the preference runs to natural braids, unbleached, with tans and light shades predominating. In the middle west the demand is about equally divided between the bleached and unbleached natural braids, while in the east the bleached braids hold sway with a decided inclination to striped bands.

Three Straws Needed

More emphasis than ever before is being placed by dealers on the advisability and necessity of more than one straw hat for the well-dressed man. They declare that three straws are required. One must be a soft body straw, such as is represented by the panama, bangkok or milan weaves for sport and country wear. A sennit braid in a stiff shape with a saw edge and a striped band is named for business wear, and a fine split Chile stiff straw with a wide black band for dress occasions.

Manufacturers of boxes and containers for shipping hats by parcel post and express expect to do a large business this year.

The majority of the departments of the great Manchester mills of the Amoskeag Manufacturing company closed yesterday and will remain closed for the remainder of the week. It is known that a wage cut has been under consideration by the company, but it is the impression in many textile circles that cutting down of expense will be accomplished through curtailment rather than by a lowering of wage levels at present.

TO PROTEST PAVING

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Protests against the creation of a road improvement district to be assessed for the paving of Del Mar avenue, from Garvey avenue to the Valley boulevard, are being received by the Board of Supervisors, indicating that the proposal will be contested when it next comes up for hearing. Those opposing maintain that curb-to-curb six-inch concrete paving, as specified in the petition, is unnecessary and involves unwarranted cost, in view of the character of the affected territory.

BOND SALES GAIN

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 10.—Bond sales have been stimulated to a remarkable degree this week as a result of the withdrawal of bank deposits which followed the closing of one of the trust companies and the amalgamation of two other banking houses. The supply of safety deposit boxes has been exhausted and the sale of small United States government securities has doubled.

RAILWAY REPORT SHOWS PROGRESS

Southern Pacific Profit in 1923 Was $43,014,950, Figures Reveal

NEW YORK, May 10.—"Conditions affecting railway operations were more nearly normal in 1923 than in any year since 1917," it was declared in the annual report of the Southern Pacific company for 1923, just made public. The report mentioned the following hopeful signs:

A volume of traffic close to the highest in the company's history was handled.

There were no major labor disturbances during the year.

Average compensation per employe decreased 2.8 per cent.

Lower fuel prices saved $3,819,000 and lower material costs $777,000.

Taxes Are Increased

On the other hand, the report declared taxes increased $1,505,971, totaling $20,365,327, or approximately the amount paid to stockholders in dividends.

While the volume of traffic increased, the revenue failed to increase proportionately because of forced reduction in rates, accounting for a loss of $17,549,000.

On the whole, however, the report shows the company's return on its investment increased by 4.81 per cent, as compared with 4.29 in 1922 and 3.36 in 1921.

For all class 1 railroads in the country, corresponding figures were 5.10 per cent in 1923; 4.29 in 1922 and 3.33 in 1921.

$43,014,950 Profit

The company's profit for 1923 was $43,014,950, an increase of 36.68 per cent.

Commenting on the progress of the Natron cut-off construction in Oregon, the report says:

"This work involves the construction of 108 miles of main line and 29 miles of sidings over the Cascade mountains between Kirk and Oakridge, Ore., including 19 tunnels, having an aggregate length of 16,455 feet, the estimated cost of which is $15,932,589. Up to March 31, 1924, the line had been relocated, shortening the distance from 118 miles to 108 miles; practically all of the right of way had been acquired, 18.70 miles of track completed and 18 miles of roadway completed, ready for track laying. Contracts have been let for the grading and tunneling of an additional stretch of 56 miles, of which six miles have been cleared, ready for grading."

Double Track Laid

The entire cost of the cut-off as relocated, from Natron, Ore., to Weed, Calif., including the portion completed up to 1914, will cost about $28,700,00.

An additional thirty-seven miles of double track between San Francisco and Ogden was put in during the year and considerable work has been done on the remaining heavy grades over the Tehachapi mountains.

Excellent progress is being made in construction by the Southern Pacific of Mexico on the 110-mile gap in the main line between Tepic and La Quemada.

Oregon to Maintain California Embargo

PORTLAND, Ore., May 10.—In its report to Governor Walter E. Pierce, the livestock sanitary board recommended that no change in the strict embargoes against California products be made.

When it becomes apparent the foot and mouth disease is not invading new territory in California, the board announced it will agree to issue new and modified regulations as adopted at the Salt Lake conference in March, except as these regulations apply to wool and other animal products, which will remain on the prohibited list.

Recommendations of the livestock sanitary board were agreed upon after members of the governor's committee, sent to California to investigate conditions, had completed their report.

Revive Incorporation Petition for Maywood

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—New proceedings looking toward the incorporation of Maywood are being started, county officials have been notified. Doheny Would Enjoy Oil Lease Benefits

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—A court order permitting the Doheny interests to enjoy the benefits and privileges created by the oil leases now under investigation by the government, until such time as the government reimburses them for expenditures made in the development of these leases, is requested in the formal answer to the government's cancellation suits on file here.

The answer filed by the Pan-American Petroleum company and the Pan American Petroleum and Transport company was for the most part a categorical denial of allegations of fraud and conspiracy by the government in connection with an endeavor to cancel oil leases and contracts consummated when Albert B. Fall was secretary of the interior.

News Want Ads Bring Results

ADVERTISING IS ECONOMIC NEED

Vital Cog in Machinery of Business, Says Realty Board Official

by satisfied individuals in Los Angeles.

In selling unimproved property on a large scale, advertising has an additional value—an educational value—of fostering the home-owning instinct. And just stop for a moment to think. Is there any more important propaganda than that which tends to preserve the American home in all its sanctity and glory as the anchor of our national life?

Thus, advertising helps create the desire to settle down on a plot of ground that will be a homestead; it is fresh fuel on the fires of ambition to build a home for those who are nearest and dearest to the individual. Can there be a cleaner motive, a better impulse in American business than the exploiting of subdivisions filled with sites for happy homes?

But this is not to be a sermon on advertising, but simply to be a reminder of certain facts connected with the campaigns and ideas successfully carried out by subdividers of Los Angeles—all members of the Los Angeles Realty Board—men and firms that have obtained results. Out of these facts there is something for everybody interested in subdivisions. You can draw your own conclusions and apply the principles to your own particular circumstances. The man with six lots in a small town can detect suggestions that will help him; the salesmanager of a great real estate selling organization will discover possible improvements in the methods of investing large advertising appropriations.

Almost every combination of size, topography and general character of subdivisions is to be found in Los Angeles. We have made an attempt to combine the varities of advertising ideas inspired by the many kinds of subdivisions so as to cover as wide a range of real estate interest as possible.

Atoms are so small that two quadrillion may be placed on the head of a pin.
